JAPANESE PREPARE FOR AIR ACTION

MANCHUKUO'S MILITARY CHIEFS CONFER

(SPECIAL TO "TELEGRAPH")

(By Telegraph. Copyright Telegraphic Messages Ordinance, 1924. Received, Feb. 15, 8 a.m.)

Tokyo, Feb. 15.

The semi-official Nippon Dempo Agency reports from Hailar that the Japanese and Manchukuo air forces are prepared for instant action as a result of the severe tension on the Manchukuo-Mongolia frontier.

Manchukuo military leaders are consulting as a result of the most recent frontier clash, which occurred Wednesday. In this fight seven Japanese and Manchukuoans were killed and eight were wounded. Only one Mongolian was slain, according to unofficial figures. Seven Mongolians were wounded.

It is reported that a Japanese colonel at Olhotka, which was bombed on February 13 by planes out of Mongolia, distinctly saw the Russian Air Force insignia on one of the raiding aircraft.

The raiders flew over Hailar for some time.

Nippon Dempo reports from Mukden that the Russian Consul-General there has announced that Moscow has ordered the Mukden offices closed. The reasons for this action and the date of the closing of the Consulate are not revealed.

Chinese Flee
Shanghai, Feb. 15.
As a result of the war scare in Manchukuo, panic-stricken Chinese are fleeing the country in thousands. All trains leaving Manchukuo for China are crammed to capacity. An association has been formed at Harbin to give anti-air raid training.

Cabinet Action
Tokyo, Feb. 15.
The Japanese Cabinet has decided, in view of the present trend of events in Manchukuo, to appropriate 4,000,000 yen from the reserve funds for the Army, 30,000 for the Navy, and 170,000 for the Foreign Affairs Department.

Paris is quiet to-day, following yesterday's excitement caused by the attack on the Socialist leader, M. Leon Blum, by Royalists, the decree for the dissolution of Royalist leagues, and the raids and arrests which were the sequel of this order.

REVOLT RAGES IN VENEZUELA

SIX KILLED WHEN MOB RUNS WILD

LOOTING IN CARACAS

Six persons have been killed here and many wounded as a result of disturbances following the declaration of a general strike as a protest against a decree establishing a press censorship.

Throughout the day this city has been controlled by a mob. Small bodies of men and women looted many residences, particularly those of officials of the late Government. They burned what they could carry away with them in the streets.

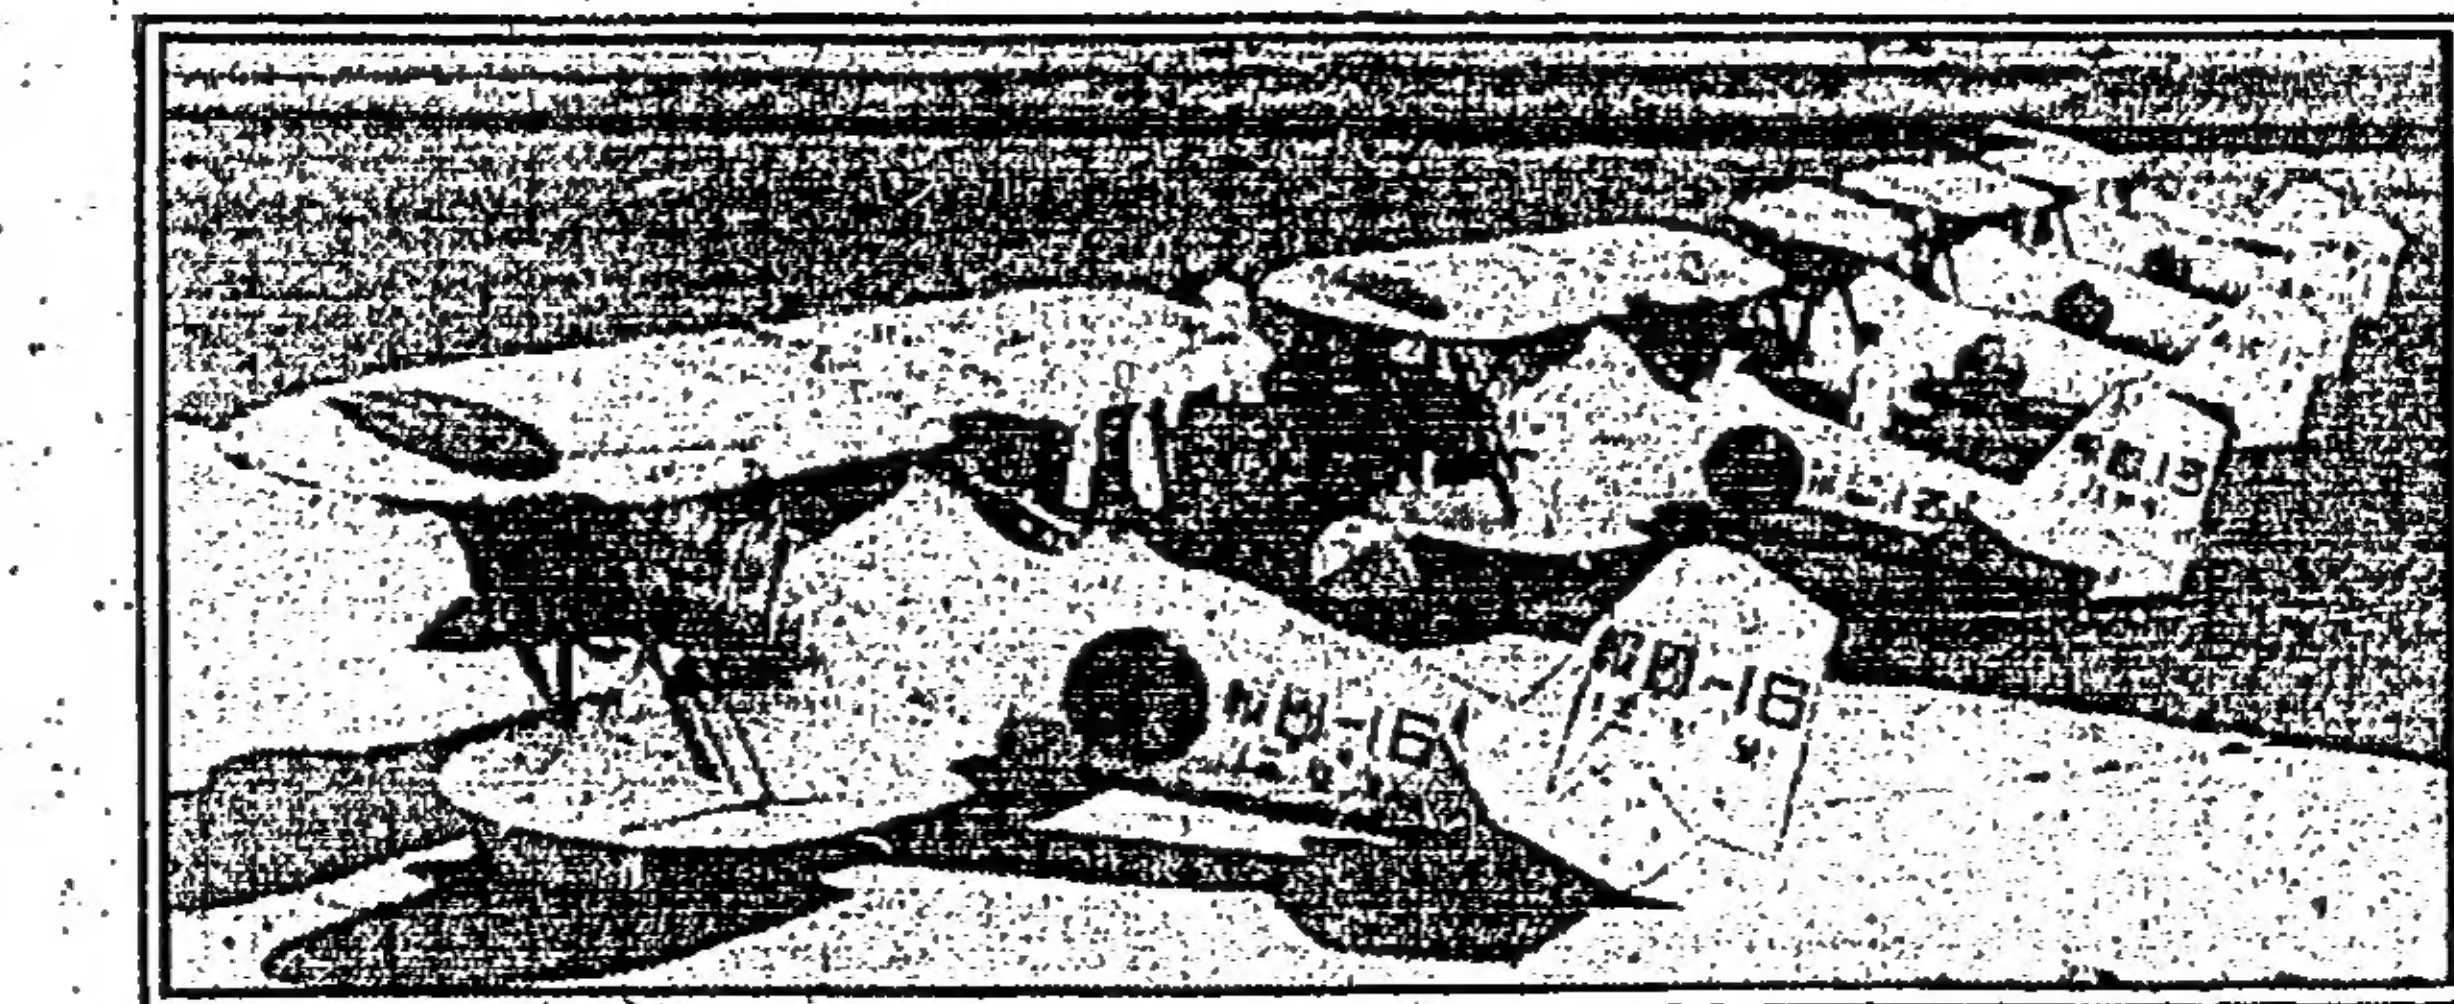

It was literally a reign of terror while it lasted. But it achieved the reforms which the people of Venezuela have long demanded.

At the demand of the strike leaders, the President removed the Governor of Caracas, capital of the state, and the President of two provinces, Lara and Zulia. Various other officials were also ousted.

All public services are suspended to-day. Newspapers and commercial houses all have ceased to work.

EX-PRESIDENT OF DUMA

(Special To "Telegraph")

Paris, Feb. 14.
A long and adventurous life was ended here to-day with the death of M. Alexandre Goukhoff, former President of the Russian Duma, who had been ill for many weeks. He was 73 years of age.

M. Goukhoff fought for the Boers against Britain and was taken prisoner by the British.

He commanded an ambulance unit in the Russo-Japanese war and was made prisoner by the Japanese.

He fought with the Macedonian bands against the Turks in 1903.

He fought and won six duels, too. He is famous for his ride of 7,500 miles across China in the early nineties.

He was one of the two delegates who persuaded the Czar to abdicate and was one of the leaders of the counter-revolution, with the famous General Denikin.

M. Goukhoff had lived in France since 1919 and lately had been engaged in writing his memoirs, which are unfinished.

EXPEDITION TO SYRIA

BRITISH EXCAVATOR'S GREAT TASK

London, Feb. 14.
An expedition led by Sir Leonard Woolley, excavator of Ur of the Chaldees, and sponsored by the British Museum, is about to start work in Northern Syria, in the neighbourhood of Antioch, with the object of obtaining information on connections between Eastern European and Western Asiatic civilisations at a time about four hundred years earlier than the traditional date of the Trojan War.

Two sites will be excavated, one on the seacoast at the mouth of the Orontes and the other in great Antioch plain between Antioch and Aleppo.

H.M.S. Cornwall arrived from Singapore yesterday for a stay in Hongkong waters.

Weekly appeals for good causes realised the record sum of £111,000 and the Corporation received 27,000 letters and other reports from over 100,000 donors in the Empire service which they have provided valuable guidance in developing programmes and technical aspects of the service.

NATION NEEDS DEFENCES

(Special To "Telegraph")

Washington, Feb. 14.
The United States Chief of Staff, General Craig, in a radio address to-night, said that if the country would learn from the repeated lessons of the past, it would fully support an adequate defence programme.

"We cannot indefinitely look upon events which cause prudent statesmen grave concern," said General Craig.

He asked, he said, for a small and efficient army, a strong and efficient National Guard, plus a reserve corps of officers capable of training and leading the youth of the land in the event of war.

"We want such an army not to wage war, but to preserve peace," he maintained.

Committed For Trial For Murder

ATTENDANTS OF NURSING HOME

RESERVING DEFENCE

(Special To "Telegraph")

Nottingham, Feb. 14.
Nurse Dorothy Nancy Waddingham and Reginald Sullivan, two attendants of a Nottingham nursing home, charged with the murder of two of their patients, were committed for trial here to-day.

Both pleaded not guilty and reserved their defence.

They were arrested a few days ago on the death of Miss Ada Baguley, 60, who died from an overdose of morphine or heroin. In her will she left £1,600 to the nursing home, providing she was cared for there until her death.

When the hearing in respect to the death of Miss Baguley was proceeding, a sensation was caused by police preferring fresh charges against the two accused. They were charged with having murdered the mother of Miss Baguley, a woman of 87, who died in the nursing home in December, 1935. She had been an inmate of the home since 1921.

INFLATIONARY EFFORT

SET-BACK TO FARM MORTGAGE BILL

Washington, Feb. 14.
Representative Wright Patman, Democrat of Texas and sponsor of the Inflationary Bonus Bill, has today filed a formal petition to attempt to force a vote on the Bill in the House of Representatives.

However, members of the Administration have expressed their doubts as to whether the necessary 218 signatures to the petition could be obtained.

Five Representatives have removed their names from the petition to force a vote on the Inflationary Farm Mortgage Bill.

This development is regarded as being very significant in view of the fact that the Farm Mortgage Bill was admitted to have more support than the Patman Bonus Bill.

PACIFIC LINER TAKES SEVERE BUFFETING

Neither crew nor passengers of the Dollar round the world liner President Garfield, which arrived here last night, look forward to experiencing again a similar few days to those passed on the way from Honolulu to Japan on their present trip.

The seas were mountainous during the whole period and the wind at almost gale force. At the height of the prolonged storm, which in other parts of the Western Pacific was responsible for the deaths of well over 100 Japanese seamen, the President Garfield was forced to heavy seas for 16 hours she rode out the spell of exceptionally bad weather.

CO-ORDINATION OF DEFENCES

MOVE WINS STRONG BRITISH BACKING

DOMINIONS MAY TAKE PLACES IN MINISTRY

London, Feb. 14.
A private Bill urging the creation of a Ministry of Defence, the head of which would co-ordinate the work of the Navy, Army and Air Force, provided material for a full-dress debate in the House of Commons, before the second reading motion was withdrawn in deference to an appeal by the Government and Sir Austen Chamberlain.

The discussion revealed that a number of prominent men in all parts of the House supported the Bill wholeheartedly in a modified form.

The mover of the Bill, Admiral Suter, stressed the importance of air attack, and declared that the air bomb was gradually becoming a master weapon. He pressed the Government to engage in experiments in battleships versus bombs.

MRS. SANGER WINS INDIAN LEADERS

HAS MESSAGE FOR CHINA

(Special To "Telegraph")

Singapore, Feb. 15.
Mrs. Margaret Sanger, the well-known advocate of birth control, arrived here to-day. She is on her way to the United States by a long road, which will take her next to China and Japan.

Mrs. Sanger is going on to Hongkong immediately, and expects to speak there, too.

She has just completed a ten weeks' tour of India, and she believes her greatest success there was in the convincing of the leaders of the nation that birth control was consistent with the highest ethics and the strictest of their religious codes.

Mrs. Sanger personally supervised the establishment of clinics in India. There was every reason to suppose, Mrs. Sanger said, that China and Japan would listen with sympathy to her theories. It offered those crowded countries a short-term solution to the problem of over-population.

SIR T. MORISON PASSES

London, Feb. 14.
The death occurred in Paris to-day of Sir Theodore Morison, Director of the British Institute since 1933, and formerly member of the Viceroy's Council in India and for ten years Principal of Armstrong College, Newcastle. He was 73 years of age.

"Let the Admiralty make all battleships as unsinkable as possible, and then let them do their best," declared Admiral Suter. He scouted the suggestion that anti-aircraft guns could prevent the bombing of ships, and contended that the Dominions should be represented on the new Ministry.

WOULD SAVE MILLIONS
Subsequent speakers, emphasised that co-ordination would save millions of pounds and give better service. They asserted that the Committee of Imperial Defence did not meet the situation.

Replying for the Government, Lord Eustace Percy defined the preliminary issue to be between:

(1) A Federal Union of subject executive departments, developing a common line, and subject to the Premier's decisions; and
(2) A scheme basing co-ordination and executive unification of the departments under one executive head.

Lord Eustace Percy declared that he could not anticipate the promised Government statement, "but the Cabinet was fully alive to the situation. He appealed to the House not to take a formal vote on the Bill.

POINTED CRITICISMS.

Sir Austen Chamberlain, in a striking speech, followed. He also advised the House to await the Government's proposals. At the same time, he engaged in disconcertingly pointed criticisms of Mr. Baldwin in connection with recent developments in the state of German armaments and other aspects of the international military position, which was based on working information.

Sir Austen declared that such statements justified the demand to create changes in order to prevent the continuance of such errors.

Acne is a word with an extremely disagreeable sound and it is used to indicate a disagreeable condition characterized by excessive oiliness, blackheads and often pimples.

If you are an acne victim, begin your campaign against oiliness with melting cleansing cream treatments. Then wash your face thoroughly with warm water and a little tincture of green soap and rinse with warm and cold water. When the face is dried, Astringent should be used lavishly to keep the oily condition of the skin in check.

Before applying your make-up, it is important to use a powder base that will protect the skin and neutralize the oils secreted by the glands. One that is particularly adept at this job is Honey-suckle cream. This greaseless cream is exceptionally pure and free from clogging elements and provides an excellent base that will make your powder cling evenly and gives your skin a lovely dull glow that lasts throughout the day.

Film companies have found the last key to successful screen offerings in beautiful women make-up according to colour harmony by Max Factor.

PLANS FLIGHT 25 MILES UP IN OPEN BASKET- GONDOLA

DARING YOUNG MAN IN A FLYING MACHINE

Boston.
Plans for a hop to the stratosphere in an open-basket balloon were disclosed to-day by Mark E. Ridge, 30-year-old aviator and balloonist of Dorchester, Mass., who hopes to reach a height of 20 to 25 miles in an ascent over Europe next year.

At home he told an almost incredible account of tests carried on in English laboratories of the equipment he will carry with him. Working with Dr. J. S. Haldane, Fellow of New College, Oxford University, and Sir Robert Davis, manager of Siebe, Gorman & Co., Ltd., now stratosphere suits were tried out at the submarine engineering plant, London.

As a result of these tests, says Mr. Ridge, it was established that lack of barometric pressure is no reason for enclosing oneself in a sealed gondola, and that immunity from cold can be gained by wearing a specially designed suit of aluminium foil resembling a diving suit.

17 MILES UP

The suit was designed by Sir Robert. In testing its value, the young balloonist stepped into a special steel chamber, the door of which was made air-tight by bolts, and allowed himself to be subjected to reduced atmospheric pressure representing a height of 90,000 feet, or similar to conditions more than 17 miles up.

Though slightly warm because of his clothes, he expressed himself as having felt perfectly comfortable throughout, experiencing none of the ill effects usually attributed to high altitudes where pressure is low.

Dr. Haldane, who was in charge of the experiments on respiration and pressure, explains that not knowing what they might encounter, they subjected Mr. Ridge to successive lower pressures over a period of two weeks until finally a pressure of only three-quarters of a pound per square inch was reached as compared with normal atmospheric pressure of 14.7 pounds per square inch. Oxygen was supplied automatically, but the pressure in the chamber could not be made any lower, since the excess of oxygen was constantly escaping into it.

LIVING IN VACUUM

This is the nearest to "existence in a vacuum" any human being ever experienced. During the time he was at this low pressure, he was breathing pure oxygen and continued to do this for about a half hour before pressure was slowly increased to normal again.

The suit was next subjected to tests against cold. Wearing a glove of aluminium foil, Mr. Ridge thrust his hand into a small chamber at 160 degrees below zero and kept it there for more than an hour without discomfort. He then put on the ordinary gloves of fur worn by Arctic explorers and with the temperature at 110 below found that a minute and a half gave him severely "frost-bitten" fingers.

Satisfied with these experiments, he next allowed himself to be packed in a dry ice container where the temperature was 110 degrees below zero, Fahrenheit. After sitting inside for two hours he removed the suit and went for a swim.

"Suitably clad," says Mr. Ridge, "there is no limit to the height to which a man may ascend. It is simply a question of how far a balloon can take him. English scientists are agreed—following these tests—that a trip to heights of 25 or 30 miles is possible in a light basket balloon, unencumbered with weighty instruments. Success will put an entirely new meaning on stratosphere exploration."

ANOTHER £200 FOR COMMON INFORMER

Another "Common Informer" has been awarded £200 in the King's Bench Division under the Lord's Day Observance Act of 1781 in respect of exhibitions of all-in wrestling on two Sundays last July.

The penalties were granted to Mr. Eric Edward Kitchener, of Aldbourne Park, Shepherd's Bush, against Mr. Bob Gregory, of Queen Street, Hammersmith.

Other cases brought by Mr. Kitchener followed, and it was stated that, with the £200 already awarded, his claim amounted to £1,450.

In the first case heard Mr. Bob Gregory denied that he was the "conductor and manager," but Mr. Justice Atkinson held otherwise.

There must be judgment for Mr. Kitchener for £200, with costs. MAY BE REMITTED

Stay of execution was granted for seven days on condition that £100 was paid into court. The judge said there was more chance of a remission in this case than in that which he decided on the previous day.

This related to £300 granted to an informer respecting Sunday bouts at Chelsea Palace.

The hearing then opened of an action by Mr. Kitchener against the Evening Standard in respect of advertisements on 17 Saturdays relating to Sunday all-in wrestling at Kilburn and Hammersmith. They were headed: "Lane's Promotions." Mr. Kitchener claimed £850 penalties.

Mr. Kitchener gave evidence as to attending the wrestling on Sundays, July 21 and 28, at Queen Street, Hammersmith.

On the first date, he said, he saw kicking and biting by the wrestlers.

"SHOULD BE STOPPED"

Mr. Justice Atkinson said that he could not conceive a case which was more within "the spirit of the law" than the present. The disgusting exhibitions should be stopped.

The final case was then begun. It was a claim by Mr. Kitchener against Mr. Harold Lane, claiming £400 penalties against him as "keeper" of the premises.

The hearing was adjourned.

The projected trip for 1936, however, will not be an attempt to reach the absolute ceiling. Mr. Ridge intends to take aloft the instruments offered by several American and European scientists and hence does not expect to go above 18 miles.

Clad in the aluminium suit, he says, he will be free to move about and make meteorological and other observations on instruments actually in contact with the rarefied atmospheres of those unknown regions.

In order to keep down weight, he intends to use only a single layer of fabric and a new type of varnish instead of five layers of cotton impregnated with rubber, as in the recent Stevens-Anderson flight.

IMMENSE RANGE OF VISION

Following the vote of the Royal Society last fall to sponsor the experiments, "Sir Gilbert Walker, Professor of meteorology at the Imperial College of Science and Technology and 20 years director-general of Indian observatories, wrote in the London Daily Mail:

"Given a fine day, without clouds or mist, I should say Mr. Ridge would have an immense horizon below him. If he reached his greatest height over England, on such a day, he would be able to see the Alps."

The value of such an ascent to meteorology is the fact that it would give meteorologists "photographic conditions" for testing much that has been arrived at by other methods. Of course up there, although there is terrific cold, the sun's rays are fierce, not because of the absence of any diffusion, and a man exposed to these conditions without the specially designed suit Mr. Ridge will wear, would be frozen solid, while the surface of the skin would be burned black by the sun."

Sir Gilbert pointed out at the time that "whereas shooting stars enter our atmosphere as a rule at a height of 125 miles and burn out before they penetrate 40 miles, there is still plenty of atmosphere to be investigated."

Leap Year "Origin" Suspected

SCOTS DEBATING OLD PROBLEM

Glasgow, Feb. 1.

With the arrival of another Leap Year, with its legendary privilege of allowing women to propose marriage to bashful swains, an old discussion has broken out again among Scottish historians.

For nearly a century a supposed statute signed by Queen Margaret of Scotland in the year 1228 has been offered as proof of the origin of Leap Year.

In that year the Scottish parliament is supposed to have passed the following law:

"It is statit and ordanit that during the rein of hir maist blisat Maigeste Margaret, for ilk year knowne as lepe years; ilk maiden lade of bothe highe and lowe estate shall have liberte to bispoke ye man she likes. Gif he refuses to tak hir to be his wyf he shall be mulet in ye sum of aue hundred pundes, or less, as his estate may be, except and always gif he can make it appeare that he is betrothit to another woman; then he schal be free."

A large group of modern historians point out that, although 1228 was a Leap Year, there was no "maist blisat Maigeste Margaret" on the throne of Scotland. From 1214 to 1249 the country was ruled by Alexander II, they point out.

Moreover, they claim, the first mention of the statute was found in "The Illustrated Almanac" for 1868, and the "conscientiously antique wording" suggests an imaginative writer rather than a genuine document of the thirteenth century.—United Press.

MONGOL-JAPANESE CRISIS

Clashes Recur On Frontier

Danger-Point Of Eastern Asia

A serious incident, involving casualties, recently occurred at Bulun-derson, south of Lake Buir Nor, along the boundary between Manchukuo and Outer Mongolia. Another grave incident, involving many deaths, occurred between Mongol and Japanese troops yesterday.

The Foreign Office and War Department disclaim the receipt of any official information, but the view-point prevails in War Department circles that Bulun-derson belongs to Manchukuo, so that the Soviet statement that Manchukuo troops crossed the frontier is not accepted here.

The territory where the clash occurred and which witnessed a similar conflict last February is open country, sparsely populated by roving Mongols on both sides of the frontier, so that a boundary dispute can readily arise.

Manchukuo authorities were unmistakably irritated when the second conference of Mongolian and Manchukuoan delegates, like its predecessor, ended abortively at Manchukuo last November. Since then the Harbin parley has collapsed, and yesterday tension had grown more acute as a direct result.

Failure of Conference. Stubborn refusal of the Mongols to exchange diplomatic missions with Manchukuo was considered a sign of unfriendly attitude and Soviet domination.

With such geographical and political background, and since the Soviet Union occupies a relation to Outer Mongolia practically the same as that of Japan to Manchukuo, border incidents can easily occur and exert a disturbing influence on Soviet-Japanese relations.

It is generally admitted that if a conflict should break out between Russia and Japan it would probably be over the question of Outer Mongolia. Whether the Soviet Union would go to the extent of fighting to defend this territory is one of the most fascinating riddles of Far Eastern politics to-day.

Japanese possession of Outer Mongolia would give them an advantageous flanking position in regard to Siberia. Many foreign observers believe that a Japanese direct or indirect attack on Outer Mongolia would be the signal for a Russo-Japanese war.

Some authorities contend that the

Danger Zone

Soviet Union is committed to something like a "five-year plan" for avoiding war in the Far East at any cost except the abandonment of its own territory.

The apparent theory is that time is working on Russia's side and that by 1940 the Soviet Union will have made such progress in industrialization, military preparedness, and morale, the latter through improved living conditions, that it will be able to present a powerful front against any Japanese attempt to extend its hold on any territory of Soviet influence.

the provision and training of personnel. Nine of the 13 civil flying schools for initial flight training have been established, and five new Air Force flight training schools are now at work.

Of the 1,450 short commission officers required by the end of March, 711 have been accepted. Large numbers are on the waiting list and will be absorbed soon.

Of non-commissioned pilots, 192 have been accepted out of 350 required by the end of March.

Enlistment in other ranks and branches is satisfactory, but there is still room for more fitters, armourers' mates, and aircraft hands. Under the expansion scheme 2,500 pilots and 20,000 others are necessary.

Few Rejections
The proportion of rejections on various grounds has not exceeded that of normal times, and there has been no need to lower standards. Cadets and aircraft apprentices are entering in sufficient numbers. The intake of apprentices has increased considerably, and the establishment strength at Halton has been enlarged.

The only class in which there is a deficiency is that of civilian pilots trained for the Reserve. It is probable that the requirement of two months' continuous training in the first year is a limiting condition; but it is strictly necessary.

ONE NEW SQUADRON A WEEK FOR AIR FORCE

Strength Already Increased By 285 Machines

NEW TYPES OF 'PLANE SURPASS EXPECTATIONS

BRITAIN'S Air Force is growing rapidly. Since the Government announced its two-year expansion programme last May, ten or eleven new squadrons have been created.

Now that the initial preparations have been completed, the expansion will be accelerated, and the increase will be at the rate of about one squadron a week.

A large number of new aeroplanes are ready for delivery. Manufacturers have enlarged their works, and production is likely to continue well up to schedule.

Several entirely new types of aeroplane are being manufactured. The fine quality and high performance of these machines have exceeded expectations.

It was announced in Parliament on Dec. 18 that the first-line strength of the Royal Air Force had been increased by 165 machines to 1,180 since last May. This total has now risen to about 1,300 machines.

Nevertheless, it is inevitable that some further expansion, to be announced shortly, will have to be provided for.

In this case, the experience gained by the staff during the last few months will prove invaluable and will ensure success.

do to remove film! Don't risk ineffective methods when film may lead to such serious consequences. And don't trust precious tooth enamel to any but a special film-removing dentifrice.

21 years ago a group of men discovered a scientific fact—that film should be removed if teeth are to be kept clean and sound, if gums are to remain healthy. A special formula was devised. Since then it has been constantly improved with one thought in mind: to remove film safely.

Today Pepsodent is known as the "special film-removing tooth paste." It is unexcelled in the way it removes the film that glues decay germs to teeth. Millions know how it polishes teeth to natural brilliance. And it does these things safely. For Pepsodent contains no grit, nothing that might harm or injure tooth enamel.

For whiter, brighter teeth, sound and healthy teeth, use Pepsodent, the "special film-removing tooth paste."

"STUDEBAKER"

STUDEBAKER trucks cost very little more than the lowest priced units on the market, but they give you far better performance, far more stamina, much lower operating costs.

And the handsome, distinctive streamlined appearance of the new Studebaker truck makes it stand out from the crowd. With its sleek, business-like lines and powerful, dependable engine, it is a truck you will be proud to own, a truck which inspires a feeling of prestige that suggests a price much higher than its actual cost.

"SCISSORS MANIA"

The difficulties encountered by the managements of cinemas in Hongkong, including excision from films by censors elsewhere, are sufficiently pronounced to warrant a more liberal and reasonably-minded policy being followed by those whose work it is to pass pictures for screening locally. An American producer who recently visited the Colony had some caustic remarks to make concerning the attitude of Hongkong censors in banning such films as "The Painted Veil" and "China Seas." He summed up his remarks by saying that Hongkong appeared to be suffering from a particularly acute attack of scissors mania, adding that this Colony is beautiful enough to merit inclusion in any picture dealing with the Far East, but if these "scissor-snippers" are to be let loose on the producer, he will avoid us like the plague. So far as "The Painted Veil" is concerned, it is stated that this film was banned merely because Hongkong was the locale. If that is the case, the reason would appear to be totally inadequate. Apparently, "China Seas" came into disfavor because in some of its scenes it depicts pirates at work. Actually, however, the pirates shown in the picture are Malays, and there can thus be no question of giving offence to the Chinese. In any case, there are Chinese pirates, and apart from this matter of causing offence, no sane person would seriously suggest that the showing of a pirate film is likely to result in any increase in piratical activity in this part of the world. Bias Bay pirates do not need film instructions as to how to go about their work! This undue sensitiveness on the part of our local censors is further illustrated in the recent intimation that all films of a gangster nature, in which revolvers or arms of any kind, or shooting, are depicted, must either be banned entirely or cut to such an extent that they show no arms of any description, no shooting and no attack by weapons. The result, of course, is to place a cast-iron ban on all films of this type, whatever the main theme of the story may be, and even if the shooting scenes are merely incidental to the picture. Gangster pictures may have their own appeal to certain types of cinema-goers, but nobody will, we imagine, contend that the Colony's criminals are likely to look out for such pictures in the hope of picking up a few points as to the best manner of procedure in hold-ups. The work of our censors is important, affecting as it does not only a big industry and the cinema houses, but the general public as well, and there is natural resentment felt amongst all these interests at any tendency to treat them as mere children in need of

England—Friend of All and Enemy of NoneBy The Very Rev. W.R. INGE, D.D.

IN the charming little speech which the late King made to his people on Christmas Day there was one sentence which he no doubt meant for the whole world.

"We wish," he said, "to be the friends of all and the enemies of none."

We in England know that these words express the simple truth. We may strongly disapprove of the actions of this or that foreign Government; we may sometimes resent the abuse and misrepresentation which the "inspired" Press of foreign countries heaps upon us.

But of animosity against any other nation there is not a trace among us. "You will like your new post," said an Ambassador to a Minister just accredited to the Court of St. James's. "This people is not jealous; it is not envious."

NOTES OF THE DAY

HOPE SPRINGS

"Japan's hope of Manchuria as an outlet for her population and products does not appear likely to be satisfied," says Sir Frederick Whyte, former political adviser to the National Government of China. Some people are never satisfied, but Japan has managed to dump a good many odds and ends into Manchuria to date. Here are a few of them:

Express trains that cover 634 miles in 12 hours.

Taxis (driven by Japanese college boys) in the larger towns.

400,000 Japanese citizens, not peasants but officials, merchants, agents—the ruling classes.

1,600 miles of new railway since 1932.

Millions of pounds worth of buildings.

50,000 Japanese officials and employees of the Manchukuo Government are already settled in Hsinking and thousands more are pouring in.

110,000 Japanese troops.

6,000 new motor roads and hundreds of motor buses to run on them.

1,000,000,000 yen of new Japanese capital.

Manchukuo has 73,000,000 arable acres still uncultivated, of 2,400,000 of which the Japanese army is settling soldier-farmers at a great rate.

The most significant thing in Manchuria is the fact that nobody has found time to build the Emperor Pu Yi his palace in Hsinking. He may get it somewhere else—in Peiping for example.

LARGE TOWNS

Large towns throughout Britain have been and are rapidly becoming still larger. Their suburbs stretch out into and absorb the open country at an extraordinary pace. Many who, noting this boom in house-building, thought that supply would long ago have equalled demand, ask in some surprise when saturation point, as it is called, will be reached. To them the steady absorption of the new houses, whether built by municipal enterprise or on private initiative, is something of a mystery. True, the rehousing of the slum population is a task of great magnitude, which cannot yet be regarded as near completion. But where do all the people come from who occupy the thousands of small villas and bungalows that are springing up?

paternal protection. There can be no objection to reasonable censorship; but when it is applied in such a manner as to ban innocuous films and to re-sult in cutting others almost beyond recognition, criticism becomes entirely justified.

Hatred as an instrument of policy was fostered artificially before the war in Germany, France and elsewhere, and it was, of course, exacerbated by the war. The memoirs of Spring-Rice, a very high-minded diplomatist, show how he encountered it everywhere, and feared its consequences. With some peoples and some individuals it is meat and drink. "An Irishman," says Spring-Rice, "would refuse to go to heaven if St. Peter were an Englishman." Ludwig's "Life of Bismarck" shows that all his life he was a furious hater. On the Continent men are surprised that we have given up duelling. "What do you do when you insult each other?" asked a German. "We don't insult each other," was the answer.

I suggest that our comparatively decent and reasonable attitude is not peculiar to ourselves, but is the common characteristic of a small group of nations in the North-West of Europe—Great Britain, Sweden, Norway, Denmark, and (in part) Holland. These nations are racially akin. When we go to the Scandinavian countries we at once feel ourselves at home.

In appearance the people are exactly like Englishmen, except that, at any rate in Sweden, they are better-looking. They are cousins to be proud of.

They are very highly civilised, and have introduced all the modern improvements into every live in large towns, for which we number of telephones per head of any country; their schools are excellent; they have led the world in gymnastics; and yet they have escaped the ugliness of industrialism. Swedish architecture is perhaps the best in Europe.

In what ways does it appear that the peoples of these countries react in the same manner to the problems of life, and differently from other nations? Are we justified in regarding them as a separate group? I think we are.

In the first place, while these nations have been tottering in most other parts of the world, these nations have retained their constitutional hereditary monarchies, and have no wish to become republics. This is a fact of great interest in itself, and a fact of great interest to us.

Next, we may notice their reluctance to apply coercion to disputed or rebellious provinces. No blood was shed when Belgium broke off from Holland, and chose the quaint motto, "l'Union fait la force." Then Norway broke away from Sweden, and again no shot was fired. The two nations are on fairly good terms; though I remember a Norwegian saying to me: "Of course you fell in love with the Swedes, foreigners always do, but when you know them better you will find that you cannot trust them as you can us."

I told this story to the Swedish Chamber of Commerce in London when I was dining with them. It was received with roars of laughter. "How like the Norwegians!" But they are really quite good friends. Then Iceland virtually cut the painter with Denmark; the Danes let them go. The same thing has happened nearer home.

I do not say that force should never be used; the American Civil War was justified by results; I only say that except in one group of nations a claim to secede has almost meant war.

Thirdly, the North-West European is a sturdy individualist. He will never deny the State, or sacrifice his liberty. Bolshevism, Fascism, and Nazism may triumph elsewhere; the North-West European will never tolerate a regime under which it is a crime to abuse his Government.

The English working man hates State interference even when he accepts it. He would like to be top dog, of course; but he has no wish to be surrounded by exactly kennels.

Fourthly, he is a country-lover. It is a hard fate which compels three-fourths of our populations to live in large towns, for which we do not care enough to make them beautiful. The Englishman's ideal is to live in a house in the country, with a garden; if he has to live in a town he escapes when he can into the green fields. I do not know Denmark, but I am told that it is full of pretty little houses in gardens; the Dutch have managed to make their flat fields with "tulips" and the hyacinths.

Fifthly, the nations of this little group believe in peace, and hate militarism. The Danes have abolished their army, and the seaparts of the world, these nations do not think it necessary to keep up navies.

We also have disarmed beyond the limits of safety, as we did after Waterloo. "There are not enough troops in England to bury a field marshal," Wellington declared.

Well, it looks as if you'll have to put off getting that permanent wave again.

Lastly the North-West European is a Protestant to the backbone. As Santayana says in his delightful "Soliloquies in England," the Englishman can never be really a Catholic. He may go over to Rome on a spiritual tour, as he might abscond for a year and live in Japan with a Japanese wife; but if he is really converted, he is no longer the man he was.

For a modern Englishman, with freedom and experiment and reverence in his blood, always nursing within himself the silent love of rebellion, to go over to Rome is an essential suicide. (This, no doubt, is too sweeping; there are natural Catholics in every country.)

* * *

These are not all of them the characteristics of our common ancestors, the Vikings? Perhaps not, but at present we really seem to be a group by ourselves, an oasis of common sense, charity and neighbourliness in a mad world.

We are essentially what we were before the industrial revolution, an episode in our history which broke up for a time our natural habits.

"We must be free or die," as Wordsworth said, and we do not mean to die. The hopes of all lovers of liberty are turned in our direction.

We and our sister-nations across the North Sea are at present the custodians of a sacred lamp which shall never be put out. For tolerance is ultimately the only method compatible with civilisation.

Ideal for girl who almost lives in sports clothes: has flippant jabot and buttons, but is still workman-like. Cut-away jacket allows plenty of freedom for bending and stretching.

Business Girl

Serious-minded type, eager to make good at her job, feels smart and comfortable in strictly formal tailor-made with gay crease in contrasting spots or stripes.

Party Girl

Gleaming white cloque gown for girl who is in her element at glittering social functions; jewel-studded belt and bag; sapphire clasp and earrings, set in diamonds; dignity plus sparkle equals social success.

IF YOUR NAME IS—

IRENE Symbol: A rainbow after the Storm.

This name signifies peace, serene calm, a refuge and a promise.

Monday brings you the luckiest influences, and they are strongest during the two hours before noon. The 20th of the month is significant and fortunate for all named Irene.

Blush pink and eau-de-nil are colours which renew your poise and balance when you are restless and disquieted.

The yellow iris is a flower closely linked with your name, and silver and platinum are more lucky than any special stone. Have your jewels set in these metals, and they will be harmonic with your personality.

Why Wear Mourning?

TWENTY-FIVE years ago a widow wore heavy crepe attached to her hat for six months, full mourning for a year, and then half mourning for another six months. Daughters wore full mourning for their parents for a year and would not have thought of accepting an invitation to dinner or out to the theatre for two or three months. Children were put into black clothes.

Black-edged notepaper was compulsory for six months or so, and pearls were the only jewels considered suitable for mourning wear. At the death of King Edward VII. the women of the whole nation went into mourning.

HOW things have changed. To-day a woman in full "widow's weeds" is a rare sight indeed. Veils are only worn by the ladies of the Royal Family at State funerals. Black-edged notepaper has gone right out of date, and at funerals the majority of the women wear dark brown as much as black, and beige stockings and gloves, where once the grimmest of black would have been considered essential. Children do not wear mourning at all.

Even Court mourning periods grow shorter and shorter out of consideration for the number of charities which are adversely affected by the withdrawal of members of the Royal Family from public affairs, and attendance at film first nights, matinees, and dinners in aid of charity is not cancelled.

WHY indeed must women wear mourning at all? The majority of deaths are those of old people, who have lived their lives and come to the natural and not unexpected end of them. Without being callous, can their relations not remember them in their hearts without parading heavy mourning in front of their friends?

Mourning is expensive, when clothes have to go wholesale into the dye-pot, and the only alternative is to adopt the dress schemes of the average middle-class Frenchwoman, still a slave to mourning ideas. She wears black all the time, because there is nearly always a relation for whom she is in whole or half mourning. How drab and gloomy the appearance of a French Sunday crowd! How sorrowful the cheeks of the women, how almost ludicrous the appearance of black mackintoshes, black-edged handkerchiefs!

I AM not suggesting that we should all wear our brightest clothes for a funeral, but that dark brown or dark blue should be considered quite as "official" mourning wear as black—and indeed that there should be an end to this "officialdom" about an essentially private and personal affair. After the funeral I can see no reason why women should not continue with their robes.

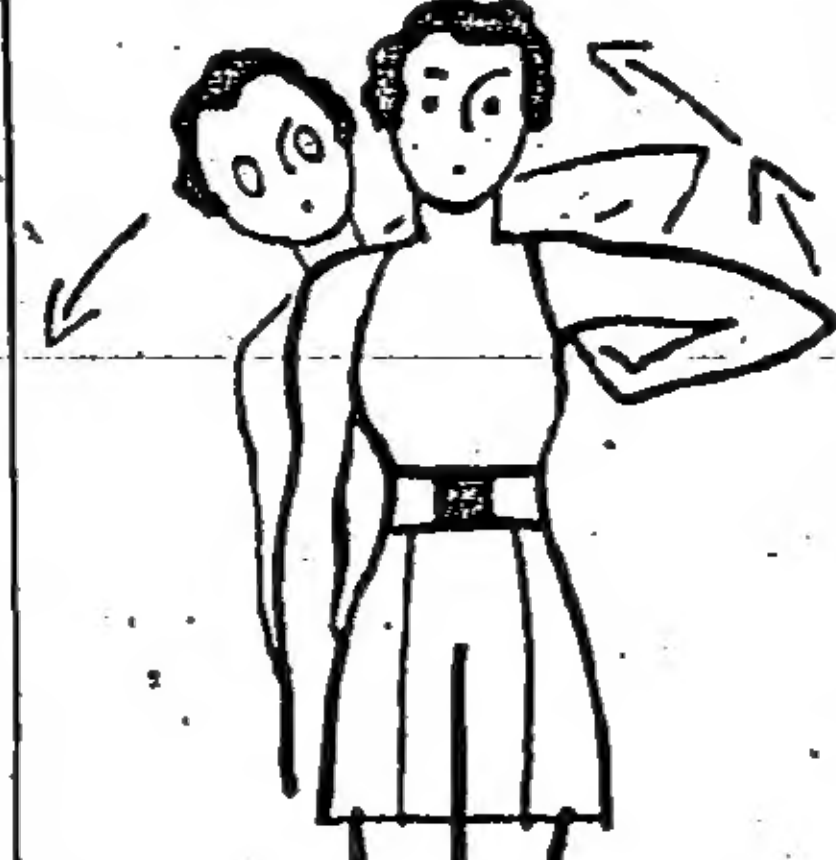

And why they should feel obliged to postpone visits to the theatre, dinner parties with friends, dances that have been arranged, unless their own personal inclination is that they do not "feel like" dining or dancing or going to a play. I do not know.

There is still a lot of humbug about mourning. I shall certainly be one of those who specify "no mourning by request" in the notice of my death—even though there may not be anybody who would wish to mourn my passing out of the world.

Evelyn Taylor

Five-Minute Exercise—No. 3

This is an exercise that is easy and without age limits. It will strengthen the heart muscles, lessen the risk of strain, as well as making the waist more supple.

POSITION: Stand with heels together in normal upright position.

EXERCISE: With fingers straight and thumb tucked in, draw the arm up, against the side of your body, until the fingers are pressed in under the armpit. While doing this, bend over to the opposite side from the working arm. Done correctly, this exercise looks rather like monkey business.

DON'T lean forward as you bend to the side.

PRESCRIPTION: Ten times each side, before breakfast.

THE tailor-made for the business woman is in black cloth, very severely cut. The jacket is double-breasted and the revers are not too wide. The white silk scarf with little red dots produces the only feminine touch. A tailored blouse of black foulard or crepe patterned with red dots would be smart as well as practical.

This suit would look equally good in dark green, navy, or currant colour. Men's suiting with a pin stripe could be used, in which case a striped scarf and blouse would look best.

For the traveller or party-girl the choice is a heavy cloque crepe gathered into many folds at the neck and waist. It is in gleaming white. The belt is studded with jewels and the handbag with stars. Tiara and earrings are of star sapphires in diamond settings. The evening coat that would look best with this is of deep midnight blue velvet with very full sleeves.

MOST nice men are really interested in women's clothes, but they know that they can easily be defeated in any technical argument on the subject. As they do not like being snubbed any better than we do, they usually keep their opinions to themselves. If, however, you talk to them kindly you will discover quite a lot of useful information.

For instance, the majority of men do not like women's clothes to bear any resemblance to their own in either style or material. The type of woman who likes herself in classic tailor-mades shows her wisdom when she wears a really feminine blouse with it. A great many men hate very shiny clothes. They cannot bear sequins, shiny metal materials or waxed satins. There are others who have a very real dislike of velvet.

Almost every man likes the romantic type of woman's clothes and soft sympathetic materials and trimmings rather than the super-smart variety which are inclined to make even the most charming wearer slightly frightening.

Make This Model Diary

MOST of us have started keeping a diary at some time in our lives, but very seldom do we find it interesting enough to keep on with it after the first few weeks.

Here, however, is an idea for a diary that will become more and more interesting as the days pass.

To begin with, you will want a large scrap-book. You can buy one with fifty-six large sheets of paper, each sixteen inches by eleven (which means 112 pages for sticking on) for less than a dollar.

This week, for instance, you could get last Monday's and Tuesday's Telegraph and cut out the pictures of the King's funeral. If you can get some of last month's Telegraph so much the better, because they had the photos of the King's reign.

Then beginning with this week's Hongkong Telegraph and continuing every week-day throughout the year, you will look carefully at all the photographs, and pick out one that you like more than all the others, either because of the value of the subject, or because it interests you or because you feel that it is of outstanding news interest.

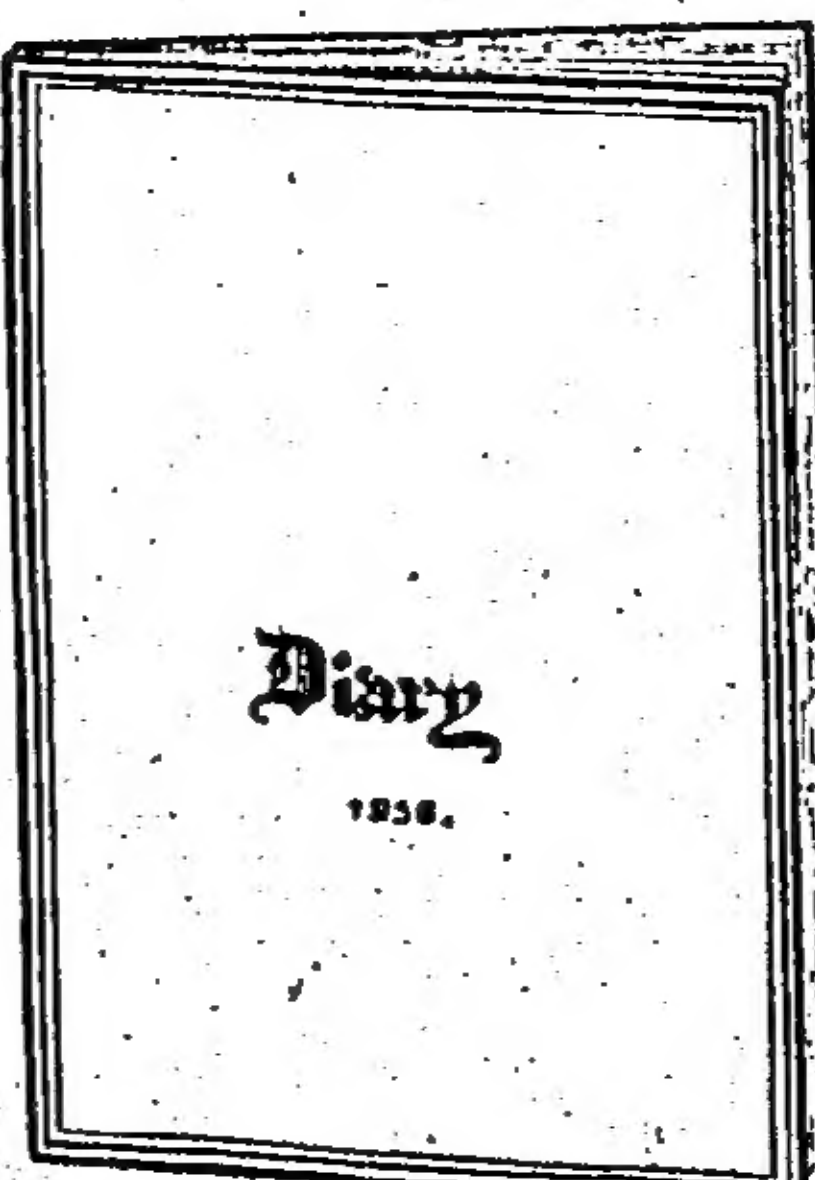

Cut them out very neatly, including the description underneath, and date them carefully on the back in pencil.

You will then make a neat brown paper cover for the outside of the scrap-book; cut the lettering Hongkong Telegraph and the date "1936" from the front page; and make up the word "Diary". These, when very neatly trimmed, you will stick on to the cover, as seen in the sketch.

As soon as a really rainy day comes you can arrange and stick in the photographs according to the dates.

Sometimes you will find that there are two or even three outstanding pictures on one day. Try, however, to keep the daily quota down as much as possible, otherwise you will find the task of sticking them—a jolly interesting job, especially if two or three friends are keeping "rival" diaries and become so burdensome that you give it up before the year is out.

Don't you think you will have a wonderful record of the year when December 31 comes, if you carry out this plan?

Did You Know?

That the first English opera, Dido and Aeneas, by Purcell, was first played in the year 1688. Actually an opera is a drama set to music; as distinct from plays where the music is merely incidental.

Which Type are You?

A GOOD cook makes it her business to discover the kind of food the family and guests enjoy. The well-dressed woman should make it her business to discover the kind of clothes that are admired by men as well as women. As it is, most of us will listen quite seriously to any remarks that another woman may make about our dress, but we would treat a man's criticism with good-humoured contempt.

It is quite a different matter when he compliments us on our appearance. Then we are not in the least inclined to feel contemptuous.

NOW the clothes that have been sketched for you to-day are man-chosen for three different types of woman. The artist describes the suit on the left as "The perfect outfit for wind-blown fairways." The material is rough nubby woollen in bottle green. Fancy buttons made of flame-coloured shiny leather strings, padded shoulders, patch pockets and a jabot all help to make the jacket interesting. Your own criticism will probably be that the suit is too elaborate, but, if you can take a hint, the fact that it was chosen by a man will mean a lot to you.

It will show you the kind of clothes a man likes to see about the club house, and the colour, dark green, will indicate that the tactful woman merges as much as possible into the background of the fairway. My own advice would be to keep the coat for the club house, get a dark green suede jacket for the game and play with woman friends only.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE
LESSON SERMONFIRST CHURCH OF CHRIST,
SCIENTIST, HONGKONG

The Subject of the Lesson Sermon in all churches of Christ, Scientist, to-morrow, February 16, will be "Soul".

The Golden Text will be: "Unto thee, O Lord, do I lift up my soul. Show me thy ways, O Lord: teach me thy paths." (Psalm 119:104).

Among others, the following citations from the Bible will be read: "Therefore I will judge you, O house of Israel, every one according to his way, saith the Lord God. Repent, and turn yourselves from all your transgressions; so iniquity shall not be your ruin. Cast away from you all your transgressions, whereby ye have transgressed: and make you a new heart and a new spirit: for why will ye die, O house of Israel?"

For I have no pleasure in the death of him that dieth, saith the Lord God: wherefore turn yourselves, and live ye. Whosoever is born of God, he doth not commit sin, because he is born of God. (Ezek. 18:30-32, 1 John 3:9).

The Lesson Sermon will also include the following passages from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy:

We are commonly taught that there is a human soul which sins and is spiritually lost; that soul may be lost, and yet be immortal. If soul could sin, spirit, soul would be flesh instead of spirit. It is the belief of the flesh and of material sense which sins. If soul sinned, soul would die. Sin is the element of self-destruction, and spiritual death is oblivion. If there was sin in soul, the annihilation of spirit would be inevitable. The only life is spirit, and if spirit should lose life as God, good, then spirit, which has no other existence, would be annihilated. Mind is God, and God is not seen by material sense, because mind is spirit, which is not material. Sin cannot discern. There is neither growth, maturity, nor decay in soul. These changes are the mutations of material sense, the varying clouds of mortal belief, which hide the truth of being.

"Soul is immortal because it is spirit, which has no element of self-destruction. It is man lost spiritually. No, he can only lose a sense material. All sin is of the flesh. It cannot be spiritual. Sin exists here or hereafter only so long as the illusion of matter remains. It is a sense of sin, and not a sinful soul, which is lost. Evil is destroyed by the sense of good." (Page 310, 311).

NEW YORK STOCK
EXCHANGEMARKET IRREGULAR
YESTERDAY

New York, Feb. 14.

Swan, Culbertson & Fritz Dow Jones summary of Friday's market:—The market to-day was irregular as the recent favorites, with copper, silver and gold stocks, touched new high levels on the Phelps-Dodge price advance. Silver shares were firm, but gold stocks were quiet. Automobile securities were strong, led by Chrysler and Packard issues. Aviation stocks advanced early in the session, but later declined on traders taking their profits. Rubber issues were higher, whilst communication securities were mixed. Carb stocks were quiet and irregular. The market for bonds was quiet. Utility and second-grade railroad issues were upward.

Swan, Culbertson & Fritz Wall Street Journal comment:—"Good orders from railroad companies and further strength of steel scrap were features of the steel market. It is understood that a wealthy trader is short, to the extent of several thousand shares of American Telephone stocks at well under the current levels. Many shorts are still left in Chrysler issues. Bulls are predicting another advance in the list of railroad corporations. Some Wall Street authorities believe that the market is fast approaching a climax on the long side and that a reaction is over-due. There is much investment buying of utility stocks."

S. C. & F. New York office cables: "Stocks: The market to-day developed some irregularity, with motor and rubber shares a strong feature. Bank Clearings during the past week were up 2.2 per cent."

Cotton: It is confirmed that the Producers' Pool has sold 50,000 bales of cotton, but bids were received for a total of 247,000 bales. The Pool proposes to sell the additional cotton at prevailing prices. It is reported that the Pool will demand delivery of 187,500 bales of March cotton if the price continues to be below the parity of "spot." The Agricultural Committee, it is reported, will approve the Smith Bill for the disposal of loan cotton, up to a maximum of 25,000 bales weekly. Consumption during January is officially estimated at 591,300 bales and exports at 123,555 bales. Forwarding to mills during the past week amounted to 271,000 bales, against 237,000 bales the previous week.

Wheat: The firmness of this market is due to the cold weather conditions and also owing to an improved

"So Red The Rose," Paramount's stirring adaptation of Stark Young's novel of the same name, opens to-day at the Queen's Theatre for a four-day run. Margaret Sullivan is the star, and the supporting cast includes such well known names as Walter Beecher, Elizabeth Patterson, Harry Ellerbe and the child actor, Dickie Moore. "So Red The Rose" is a story of the South, a romantic and poignant account of those turbulent days of the War between the States. More than that, it reveals the ideals and hopes and bravery of a gentle Southern family when the clarion call of strife made men and women array themselves on the side of duty, sure of the righteousness of their cause. It is the story of a young girl's love for a man who is called to answer the fighting call of his people, and who, in his efforts to do what he believes what is right, is willing even to sacrifice love on the altar of his beliefs. Margaret Sullivan is the girl, Vallette, a pretty, vivacious belle of the South. It is a role which she plays to perfection. Her performance is a gem, and she brings to her portrayal the artistry that has distinguished her work on stage and screen. The boy, Duncan, is portrayed by Randolph Scott, a handsome and talented actor who in "So Red The Rose" forges his "western" characterizations which have won him fame and proves his versatility as an actor. Walter Connolly, one of the foremost character actors of our day, is splendid as Vallette's father and Janet Beecher, Harry Ellerbe and Elizabeth Patterson (in one of her biting roles) do well in parts that give background and authenticity to the story. The direction of King Vidor ranks high among his many works remembered by picture audiences. For "So Red The Rose" gives the full flavor of Stark Young's nostalgic and romantic novel, capturing completely the spirit and feeling that made "So Red The Rose" one of last year's most important contributions to American fiction.

"The Mutiny on the Bounty"

Sea history's most famous mutiny was filmed with a trace of mutiny in the crew. Put more than a hundred brave men on the deck of a 100-foot sailing ship for many weeks and discussion and grievances between members of the crew are expected to arise. H.M.S. Bounty, which sailed the Pacific's blue water for Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's "Mutiny on the Bounty," opening to-day at the King and Albert Theatre, is the exception. Irving G. Thalberg left no stone unturned to provide comfort and contentment for the stars, players and working crews who spent such a long period either on the Bounty's deck or in the camp maintained by the company at the Catalina island. Wholesome, hot food was one of the principal agencies in keeping a huge company of men content and satisfied in the face of unusual hardships. No meal was served to his men without Director Frank Lloyd personally inspecting it. When the Bounty was at sea, hot lunches and plenty of it—were aped from the lathum camp to the Bounty, even though the vessel was ten or twenty miles away. Chefs and waitresses accompanied the steaming food and sometimes necessary were the deck in a boy's vest in rainy weather. Aboard, the meals were served cafeteria style, and there was enough left over to satisfy the most voracious appetites a second and even a third time. Throughout the day aboard every member of the company had access to bulging crates of oranges and apples and to huge pots of hot coffee, always boiling in the galley. Singing provided another diversion, which was always encouraged by Director Lloyd aboardship between scenes. Beginning with Donald Crisp, Eddie Quillan, Stanley Fields and Dave Thursday, the quartet increased to a "community chorus" with Charles Leighton raising his tenor, thought slightly nasal, to the forefront peak. Gable, in these chorus ensembles, revealed a sort of basso profundo and Franchot Tone developed nicely as a crooner.

"Becky Sharp" Had William Munkpeace Thackeray devised a heroine especially for the blonde star Miriam Hopkins, his Becky Sharp would have been the answer, since in the judgment of

Sir Harold Bellman thinks that the time has come when the building industry should adopt a more cautious attitude. Whilst not anticipating a considerable or immediate decline in the volume of house production, he thinks that a slackening of demand may not be far off, and that if builders do not keep a sharp eye on the market, they may be left "with the baby to hold." In other words, a glut of houses might cause prices to fall below the cost of production. That would be very pleasant for purchasers, but it is not a possibility that the industry can contemplate with enthusiasm. Sir Harold Bellman's warning is of interest. Whether builders, in their competitive eagerness, will give heed to it, remains to be seen.

Hollywood Miss Hopkins fits the famous fiction character snugly. It has indeed been debated whether Miss Hopkins makes the more excellent Becky, or Becky a more excellent Miriam. In any event Miriam is Becky in the pioneer full-colour motion picture "Becky Sharp" now at the Star Theatre, adapted so cleverly from the Langdon Mitchell stage play, which had its origin in the timeless novel "Vanity Fair." Thackeray wrote into his character that magnetic spark that is found in few humans. Miss Hopkins is conceded to have it, and it comes vividly to the screen in all her portrayals. In "Becky Sharp" it is doubly felt. In other ways Miss Hopkins is like the fictitious Becky. The latter was master of her own destiny. It was her ambition to be satisfied with nothing less than the top. This has been true in the personal life and ambitions of the blonde star also. From a humble beginning as a chorus girl in a revue, she has risen, in a few years, to top places on both the legitimate stage and the screen. "Becky Sharp" is a Rouben Mamoulian production, with colour composition by Robert Edmond Jones.

"Front Page Woman," Warner Bros. fast-moving comedy-drama dealing with the intense rivalry between a man and woman reporter on opposing newspapers, comes to the Queen's Theatre at an early date. Betty Davis, deserting for the moment the heavy dramatic roles she has portrayed in the past, and George Brent, the Irish American actor, are starred in the picture, which includes a supporting cast comprising popular players such as Roscoe Karns, Winifred Shaw, Walter Walker, J. Carroll Nash, Gordon Westcott and others. Miss Davis is cast as Ellen Garfield, sister on the staff of the Star, while Brent has the role of her rival on the Express. Their professional enmity begins in the press room of a prison shortly before the execution of a Broadway butterfly for the murder of her paramour, carries through a series of dramatic and comic situations, and ends in a true and, of course, love. The picture was adapted from Richard Macaulay's magazine story, "Women Aren't Newspapers," by Roy Chanslor and Lillie Hayward. The screen play was written by Laird Doyle. Michael Curtiz directed.

On the Question of ECONOMY:

Low initial price is certainly a point to consider when purchasing a motor car.

But the motorist who desires the utmost for his money should also consider the operating expense of the car he buys and its freedom from frequent repair bills.

THE CHEVROLET MEETS ALL THE TESTS OF ECONOMICAL TRANSPORTATION. ITS PURCHASE PRICE IS LOW; ITS COST OF OPERATION IS REDUCED TO A MINIMUM WHICH IS UNRIVALLED; AND ITS WELL-BUILT CHASSIS AND ENGINE ARE DESIGNED TO GIVE MANY YEARS OF FAITHFUL AND DEPENDABLE SERVICE.

AMUSING SATIRE ON HOCKEY

THIS "FEROCIOUS GAME"

The following is an amusing satire on the game of hockey written by Roy Bentham in the London Daily Mail.

Hockey is a blood-sport practised by girls' schools and the fiercest cavalry regiments. It is also played with desultory condescension, in the Lent Term, by some of the public schools as a gentle relaxation from the rigours of football.

As in cricket and rush-hour railway carriages, there are eleven on each side, and the rules are (very) roughly those of Association football. There are, however, many more ways of committing a "foul" and the ferocity of the game is shown by the fact that two umpires are considered necessary, in case one is shocked beyond repair.

There is a rule about taking a full swing when about to strike an opponent, but in a friendly game the umpires turn a black eye to infringement.

The missile is a cricket ball suffering from anaemia, and the stick a cross between a walking-stick and a banana. Like the latter, it is apt, unintentionally, of course, to trip up the unwary.

The goalkeepers are the only players allowed to catch, throw, or kick the ball; they are also allowed, and frequently compelled, to head it. The intelligent noophyte may conjecture that the frequent cries of "Centre, centre!" have something to do with the semi-circle in front of the goal, which the players, having no use for half-measures, call the "circle." This is quite correct.

Whenever a player is injured and appears to be recovering, he/she is placed in the centre and required to describe the circle. If this is done satisfactorily the player is deemed to be sane and is expelled from the team.

Hockey effects nations in different ways. In Scotland, where there is a desire for philosophic meditation and scientific thought over each stroke, twenty of the players are eliminated, each player has his own ball and five minutes in which to hit it, and the game is called golf.

The genius of Ireland on the other hand has evolved two variants called hurl and shinty, each more sanguinary than the other, in these no ball is really necessary at all, the game being won by the side which

(a) has most survivors at the end of a given time, or (b) has any survivors after an unlimited time.

In England, though one of the most ancient ball-games, it receives little reverence. On Boxing Day and other financial feasts it is even played by teams of both sexes, and no game can be deemed fit for pinkie shills after such degradation.

CHINESE RECREATION CLUB AND ST. JOHN'S

GAME'S RULES STILL IGNORED

(By "Veritas")

The last week has been full of incidents in league badminton. Among the highlights have been the triumph of Chinese Recreation Club over Fire Brigade in the mixed doubles; the splendid victory of St. John's against Recreio "B" in the men's doubles; and the initial successes of Kowloon Tong in both divisions.

The outstanding teams of the season are without question Chinese Recreation Club and St. John's. A year ago the C.R.C. were scarcely interested in the game, now they are in running for two championships. The advent of Gordon Lum and his wife (who plays in the mixed doubles team) has proved an incentive to the Causeway Bay Club. Their presence has added just the strength required to bring the team up to the standard of their contemporaries, and one has only to look at their record to appreciate that on their own court it is almost impossible to beat the C.R.C.

So far as the mixed doubles is concerned they are strategically placed as they have twice played Fire Brigade and once Recreio "A", who are, of course, the only other serious contenders for the title. Furthermore, Fire Brigade and Recreio having played last night have still to meet in the return, and the results of these games may well allow C.R.C. to slip in and capture the honours. Although the Chinese are losing Mr. and Mrs. Lum early in March they have finished their most important games and without the assistance of the Shanghai players, should be capable of winning the remainder of their programme with the possible exception of Recreio "A".

In the men's division it is somewhat startling to find Recreio "B" experiencing such a chequered season. Their chief trouble is to keep a regular team. They have had little chance this year of settling down into a workmanlike combination, and this clearly goes against them when they come up against balanced combinations such as C.R.C., Eliot Hall and St. John's. Nevertheless full credit must be given the Saints for such a fine performance. The true value of it lies in the fact that victory was not obtained by two couples as is so often the case with local teams. All three pairs shared the winning games, and this is a true indication of all-round strength and stability.

AT LAST

One feels constrained to offer congratulations to Kowloon Tong, after weeks of successive defeats (several of them very heavy), upon their striking winning form. Their two mixed doubles victories must have been most welcome for it is no encouragement for a new club to go through a season losing, losing, losing. Even more encouraging was Thursday's result against St. Andrew's "B" in the men's division. This match gave P. C. Leung and J. M. Pong a chance to show how much they have improved and they quickly seized the opportunity.

Both played very well indeed, the most impressive feature being their ability to sustain rallies until the chance for an outright ace presented

TOO FAST FOR THE FIRE BRIGADE

MR. AND MRS. SHUTE LOSE THEIR FIRST GAME

IN MIXED DOUBLES DIVISION

(By "Veritas")

Fire Brigade's hopes of winning the mixed doubles badminton league further receded last evening when they were beaten by Recreio "A" at Club de Recreio. But the final outcome of the contest between Fire Brigade, C.R.C. and Recreio "A" for the honours is still fraught with possibilities.

The Brigade have now lost two games while Recreio and C.R.C. have each lost one. Everything hinges on the outcome of the next meeting between the Brigade and Recreio. If Recreio can win both the championship will be theirs again, while if Recreio beat Fire Brigade and lost to the Chinese, the latter should win the title. The third eventuality is the C.R.C. beating Recreio and losing to the Portuguese, which would then put the three teams on level terms with identical records, necessitating a play-off.

This, of course, is ignoring the chance of some surprise defeat by either or all of these three teams by other clubs.

SHUTES' FIRST DEFEAT

Last night's game was featured not so much by the defeat of the Fire Brigade, as it was generally felt they were up against a stiff proposition at King's Park, but the fact that Mr. and Mrs. Shute sustained their losses in the season when they succumbed to M.A. Oliveira and Miss M. Silva.

The remarkable agility and retrieving powers of Oliveira was chiefly responsible for the result. Fully recovered from his recent injury, Oliveira dominated the court, returning Shute's best smashes and keeping the opposition actively recovering the shuttle from difficult positions by means of his neat placements.

Miss Silva was steady from the forecourt, and by helping to return the rallies alive often created openings for her partner's fine overhead shots. The Portuguese pair were very much faster on the court and it was this factor which played an important part in the result.

MANY MISTAKES

An indifferent start saw Mr. and Mrs. Shute lose their touch and towards the end of the game unaccountable blunders flowed from their rackets. It seemed too they were suffering reaction from the previous game in which they had been driven to the end of the court by a winning pair.

In his first two games Shute was producing some delightful shots notable among them being an acutely angled drop shot from the rear of the court made on the run. He and his partner had a close call against J. Remedios and Miss C. Silva, but they were out of the running in the first encounter of the evening both playing clever badminton.

The other two Fire Brigade pairs were nothing like fast enough for the Recreio. Anderson and Fisher both worked themselves to death on the baseline, but they were too tired to sustain the pressure and were too stereotyped and straightforward to deceive the opposition, who contented themselves with lobbing to the rear of the court and waiting for the inevitable "kill".

Mrs. Kirkwood gave glimpses of cleverness, but she was unable to remain a little too stationary and several times found the shuttle fired straight at her with no means of escaping it.

NEVER A WALK OVER

The powerful overhead shots of the Recreio men and the steadiness of the ladies in the forecourt created balanced combinations which the Fire Brigade lacked. But it was never a walk-over for the Portuguese and most games were strenuously and brilliantly contested.

J.J. Remedios, making, I think it was his first appearance since breaking his arm, started tentatively, but later warmed up to give a very worthy account of himself. His backhand driving from the baseline was among the finest strokes of the evening.

It was a fine match with both teams living up to reputations. The result too was in accordance with the difference between the teams. Scores:—L.A. Carvalho and Miss O. Ribeiro (Recreio "A") lost to Mr. and Mrs. E.L.H. Shute 2-1; beat J.L. Anderson and Miss M. Griffiths 2-0; beat A.L. Fisher and Mrs. Kirkwood 2-1; J.J. Remedios and Miss C. Silva (Recreio "A") lost to Shute and Shute 20-21; beat Anderson and Griffiths 21-18; beat Fisher and Kirkwood 21-11. M.A. Oliveira and Miss M. Silva (Recreio "A") beat Shute and Shute 21-9; beat Anderson and Griffiths 21-12; beat Fisher and Kirkwood 21-7.

ST. JOHN'S BEAT RECREIO "B"

Frank Kwok Again In Form

With Frank Kwok and Miss M. Smith in their best form, ably supported by their colleagues, it came as no surprise to find Recreio "B" beaten at the Cathedral Hall last evening.

But there were some closely contested games notably the two "setted" ties between Roland Koh and Mrs. Barlow and J. Xavier and Miss M. Xavier, and David Kwok and Miss Peggy McCaw against B. Gosano and Miss A. Remedios.

Bernie Gosano made one of his rare appearances, but did not produce his best form. It was a pleasant game with the home team a trifle flustered by the wide margin of games in the result. Scores:—

F. H. Kwok and Miss M. Smith (St. John's) beat A. E. Xavier and Mrs. Sousa 21-8; beat B. Gosano and Miss A. Remedios 21-7; beat J. Xavier and Miss M. Xavier 21-11. Roland Koh and Mrs. A. L. Barlow (St. John's) beat Xavier and Sousa 21-5; beat Gosano and Remedios 21-10; lost to Xavier and Xavier, 22-24.

David Kwok and Miss P. McCaw (St. John's) lost to Xavier and Sousa 18-21; beat Gosano and Remedios 24-22; beat Xavier and Xavier, 24-28.

C.R.C. AGAIN LEADERS

EASILY DEFEAT S. AND S.

By defeating Sailors and Soldiers Home at Causeway Bay last night, Chinese Recreation Club again assume the leadership of the mixed doubles badminton league.

They made a clean sweep against mediocre opposition although with the aid of Mr. and Mrs. Lum and Mrs. T. F. Lo. Scores:—

S. P. Chan and Miss W. Cheung (C.R.C.) beat D. Waylan and Miss M. Doig 21-9; beat J. Winfield and Mrs. Lloyd-Jones 21-2; beat H. Harris and Mrs. Brown 21-2.

W. C. Choy and Miss R. Perry (C.R.C.) beat Waylan and Doig 21-7; beat Winfield and Lloyd-Jones 21-6; beat Harris and Brown 21-3.

W. W. Liang and Mrs. Liang (C.R.C.) beat Waylan and Doig 21-10; beat Winfield and Lloyd-Jones 21-8; beat Harris and B. Brown 21-11.

ELIOT HALL "A" WIN 9-LOVE

Against "B" Team

An hitherto unreported league badminton result has just come to hand. Last week Eliot Hall "A" and "B" teams met in their first match of the season the seniors' winning by nine games to love.

This match was re-arranged by error to coincide with the "A" team's engagement with St. Andrew's "B", reference to which is made in a letter which appears in paraphrased form in another column.

In consequence of this result, the following is the amended league table.

ELIOT HALL MAY GO TO SHANGHAI

TO PLAY BADMINTON

The Shanghai Times this week published a report that Eliot Hall, ranging badminton champions of Hongkong, are contemplating visiting Shanghai during the Easter vacation there to participate in an unofficial badminton intertour.

The report was apparently released to the Shanghai Times by the Shanghai Badminton Association and it reads as follows.

Prospects of an intertour match between the two cities in Shanghai during the Easter holidays have been brightened by the opening of negotiations between the local authorities and Eliot Hall, University of Hongkong, the present Champions of the Colony.

After participating in one of the League matches in the Colony last month, Gordon Lum declared that he was amazed by the progress showing in Badminton in Hongkong, and he firmly believed that if a team were to meet a representative Shanghai side, the northern players would by no means have things all their own way.

INTERESTING VISITOR

The fact that H. S. Ong, the Cambridge badminton skipper is at present reported to be in Hongkong, would make the intertour doubly interesting if he were able to make the trip.

Whether the team will be a representative side or a Club team, or whether it will be an international one is not yet known, but it is held probable that the Colony could well afford to leave her honours in the hands of an all-Chinese side, so great had been the progress made.

Rumours have been steadily increasing that the Chinese in the Colony have taken to badminton seriously in the past season and that a number of good players have come to the fore within recent months. At any rate it would be interesting to see how the visitors will fare against Shanghai and though the possibility of the intertour is not yet assured, the desir-

ANSWER TO CORRESPONDENT

"O.E.H." of the Hongkong University Union writes to disclaim the article written by "Veritas" on Saturday last in which the writer asserted that St. Andrew's "B" badminton team journey to Eliot Hall to play a mutually arranged match and found that Eliot Hall were not there.

He further protests that "Veritas" mis-stated the case in saying that the Eliot Hall "A" and "B" teams had an evening off on Friday, February 7, when actually they played off their postponed match. Our correspondent points out that the reason why they did not play St. Andrew's "B" that night was due to Eliot Hall mislaying the letter specifying the date on which the match was to be played.

In reply "Veritas" writes that although he regrets the error made in stating St. Andrew's "B" visited Eliot Hall when actually the match was arranged to be played at St. Andrew's, the mistake was due to misinformation. His article was based on information received from an authoritative source, and was, in substance, correct.

When the article was written it was not known that the two Eliot Hall teams had played off a match that night, as no information was received in the Telegraph office either before or since the match until this present intimation. It was a somewhat natural assumption that as Eliot Hall did not play against St. Andrew's that night, they did not play at all.

It was unfortunate that the mistake occurred, and in future to assist in avoiding any such repetition the Telegraph would appreciate it if Eliot Hall and other teams who mutually arrange matches would inform us so that the games can be reported and errors of the above type avoided.

ability of such a step is obvious, specially after the success of the Tientsin visit.

CRAFTSTHE BOAT RACE
Alternative Oxford
Strokes

(By Conrad Skinner)

Oxford training is now in full swing, and Hope, as was anticipated, is going to receive serious consideration as a likely stroke for the 1936 crew. Winner, who had at one time appeared a close competitor, was rather considerably eclipsed in the Trial Eight Race last November.

It may prove wise not to over-estimate that particular failure and still to alternate him with Hope as a certain extent, as he makes a very lively practice stroke; and, even if Hope confirms his right to the ultimate honour, Winner, should he go to Two, would still represent an invaluable reserve stroke in case of need. Cambridge rowed and paddled a Lock-to-Lock course down-stream. The crew was in some sense a skeleton boat-race crew, as only Kingsford of the four Blues was rowing. (From bow to stern: Williams, Mason, Foster, Lack, G. Lewis, Kingsford, Croes, C. Lewis). The crew rowed off at 3.30, dropped to a paddle, which was raised to a good burst of rowing in the Long Reach and again at the finish. Apart from light spells the paddling was at about 23-24 per minute.

One's attention, it is true, was somewhat divided, for the scowp was a horrid mixture of puddles, snow, slush and in shaded areas, glacial traps; but, on the whole, although it contained good patches, the outing was a little disappointing.

The disappointment was the more surprising because it originated in a lack of the very steadiness of stroke for which this crew, and especially Clive Lewis at stroke, has been outstanding. Even this crew will be making a mistake unless it gets absolutely grounded into it that steadiness over the stretch of the last bit forward is fundamental to all the great possibilities that are inherent in it. Its adaptability is as much beyond question as its flexibility. Recently I suggested to a friend that this crew was so adaptable that every man in the boat could be set on a forward side and in his wrong position without overwhelming damage to its virtue. By a pure coincidence on Wednesday the whole crew's order was reversed, and it went quite well.

THE HOUR OF CONTEST

Another friend, whose expert knowledge of a national sport is a household word, put an interesting question to me a week or so ago. He asked whether a crew ever made a habit of rowing in practice with particular attention to the time of day when the race itself would be rowed. For instance, if the race were appointed for just after lunch, a man's physical and psychological condition was liable to be different then from that which would obtain at, say, ten in the morning.

I replied that no heed was ever given to the matter from that angle. He was interested, and mildly surprised, but cited other sports in the same sense, e.g., horse-racing, where the races were usually afternoon affairs, whilst practice and trials were habitually conducted in the early morning. In boxing, again, which is an evening affair, training was largely a morning fixture.

PRACTICE IN RUNNING

The point is capable perhaps of interesting development in debate with regard both to these and other sports. I interposed, however, that to myself a still more interesting point of comparison in sport arose concerning the relation between the distances proposed for contest and those actually performed in practice.

Although it may since have been altered, I know the convention in track-racing used to be never to run quite the full course which was envisaged in the coming contest. A quarter-mile, for instance, would stop short by 30 or 40 yards in his practice runs, the argument apparently being that in the actual contest he would pull out of himself that reserve which everybody can call upon in a crisis, whereas such a procedure clearly must not and could not be made a habit.

I quoted this with such trepidation as beats an outsider, but added with assurance that no such practice existed in rowing, where full courses, uncurtailed, are attempted throughout training, though, of course, at varying paces.

It would be interesting to know whether my inferences touching track-racing—or on any other point—are correct; at least, I am sure that the motive for the habit, if indeed it still obtains, bears no relation to the superstitious inhibition that demands the omission of the last line of a play right through rehearsal until the great night itself arrives.

Itself. Leung's craft too was a testimony to the patient practice he has put in during the last few months and of the fact that he has learnt valuable lessons from his league matches.

The players show distinct promise of making a really good combination.

TESTING SHUTTLES

Turning to more general matters. I was chatting with a prominent player and he expressed surprise that local teams do not trouble to test the shuttles before using them in a match. Elsewhere I knew this procedure is followed, simply because, as I pointed out in a recent article it is impossible to guarantee that all shuttles, after they have been exposed to varying temperatures and conditions, will remain identically fast or slow. The way to test this is probably well known. One simply takes a shuttle, stands on one of the baselines and drives the feather as hard as possible. If it is true in speed it will fall not more than a yard either shorter or beyond than the opposite baseline.

I think perhaps as this test is so simple and can be adopted by anybody, the Badminton Association might recommend to clubs that it be adopted before each game in league matches. There is no doubt that occasionally one comes across a shuttle which is much faster than it should be and this is liable to upset one's game.

I recognise that several clubs cannot afford to dispense with new shuttles during a match, but it is well to bear in mind that any which are found unsuitable for a match can be used on practice nights.

FAULT SERVING

Another point which the Association must emphasise is the necessity for players to observe the service fault rules. I believe the committee intends to bring up the subject at next Friday's meeting. Up to the present too many players, simply through carelessness or because they have not been corrected by an umpire, are serving foot faults by the dozen. There are two things to bear in mind when serving. One is that both feet must remain in contact with the ground until the shuttle is hit; the other that both feet must be clear of the service lines and in the service court.

Then there is a tendency by some players here (I know of one in particular and he is a fine player) to serve from above the waist. This is a definite fault and is strictly barred by rule. Such a service clearly prevents the server with an unfair advantage, as he or she can drive the "bird" in a sort of semi-air which makes it very difficult to return.

Not only should the Association appeal to players to rectify these errors, but they should ask umpires to see that the rules are enforced concerning them. A player can first be warned and thereafter "faulted". In the final analysis it is for the benefit of the player to be corrected as it is so easy to get into a habit of fault serving. It is just as easy to serve correctly.

BAD LIGHT IN CRICKETMAILEY WANTS
"RECORDER"GADGET TO STOP
ALL APPEALS

ARTHUR MAILEY, the former Australian Test bowler, who is travelling with the Australian touring team in South Africa as a journalist, thinks that appeals against bad light should be abolished. As an alternative he suggests that the controlling bodies of cricket should agree upon the standardisation of light and that a mechanical light recorder should be used to decide whether the light is good enough for play.

Mailey's contention is supported by Mr. Frank Gray, who in other days has umpired matches between South Africa and Australia. This gentleman says that appeals against the light have always been a bugbear and that if a practical light recorder could be introduced all cricketers and umpires would welcome it. In his view such a mechanism would reduce the margin of human error.

FOR AND AGAINST

Cyril Vincent, the old South African bowler, regards it as a sensible suggestion, but fears that such mechanical devices would make Test cricket too grim a business where winning was everything and the game itself was forgotten.

Mr. Arthur Laver, a Transvaal selector and Test umpire, feels that a mechanical light recorder would not suffice, and he opposes the abolition of appeals.

"The light," he says, "often varies at the two ends of the pitch. It might be perfect at one end and a bank of clouds in front of the sun may make it very poor at the other."

E. P. Nupen, an old South African captain, goes the whole hog. He thinks—good easy man—that all appeals should be abolished and that the umpires should decide. He adds:

"There are many occasions when a bowler loses an 'lb.w.' decision through not appealing because he is out of line of the wicket. A snick might also go to the wicket-keeper without the bowler realising that the batsman has touched the ball."

Nupen also urges that there are many appeals which ought never to be made, and he makes such indiscretion another reason why the umpires should be left to decide without appeal.

PERCY FENDER'S VIEW

It is interesting to recall that Percy Fender as long ago as 1930 expressed himself in favour of a light measuring apparatus.

"Such a machine," he said, "is used in Australia and it determines the 'par value' of the light—that is the 'value' at which it must stand if play is to take place."

"It is impossible for the crowd of onlookers to know the real facts in such cases, for sometimes the ball can quite well be seen against the screen, but the bowler may be pitching one occasionally above the screen as Grimmeth does."

"This opinion was expressed after the third Test match at Leeds in 1930 when English batsmen, including Jack Hobbs, appealed against the light and had that appeal upheld."

A LAW REPEALED

With the revival of an old controversy one may recall here that as the result of a recommendation by the Advisory Committee it was not allowable during the seasons of 1931-32 for either side to appeal against the light in county matches in England.

A proposal by Notts, however, in the winter of 1932 was carried to the effect "that the umpires may decide on appeal from either side that there is not sufficient light for play."

PROTEST AGAINST TEST CHANGENotts Wish To Keep Match

A protest against a recent suggestion that a Test match should be taken away from Nottingham or Leeds, and played at Lord's, was made at the annual meeting of the Notts County Club yesterday.

Mr. Douglas McGrath, a member of the Notts Committee, said no proposal had yet come before the Board of Control, but there were rumours which had foundation.

"The reason for this step is that a match at Lord's would be likely to show more profit than one in the provinces," more inadequate reason it would be difficult to imagine," said Mr. McGrath.

"The profit made out of Test matches during the Australian tour of 1934 was £45,412. This figure would have started a previous generation, but is not to-day considered sufficient by some people who are prepared to break with tradition, and to deprive the followers of cricket in the Midlands of the North of a chance of seeing a Test match in order to increase them."

"Since the War the Nottinghamshire club has spent £20,700 upon permanent improvements which are superfluous for County games."

AREA BOXING

TOURNAMENTS
FOR APRIL

A series of interesting boxing events have been arranged for April by the Hongkong Area Sports Board with the various local battalions participating.

Friday, April 3, will be the first night, when the Royal Welch Fusiliers meet the East Lancashire in the novices team competition at Shamshulpo, starting at 8 p.m. On Saturday, April 4, the semi-final of the inter-unit teams competition will be staged at Murray Barracks at 8 p.m. between the Royal Welch Fusiliers and the Royal Ulster Rifles.

The following week, on Wednesday, April 8, the Royal Ulster Rifles will meet the winners of the contest between the Royal Welch Fusiliers and the East Lancashire in the novices team final at Murray Barracks at 8 p.m. The final of the inter-unit teams competition will take place at Murray Barracks at 8 p.m. on Thursday, April 9, when the East Lancashire will meet the winners of the tournament between the Royal Welch Fusiliers and the Royal Ulster Rifles.

Individual contests will be held at Murray Barracks at 8 p.m. on Thursday, April 16, when the semi-finals are to be staged, while the following day, Friday, April 17, the finals of the individual contests will be held at Murray Barracks, starting at 8 p.m.

Thil's eleventh successful attempt to retain his title.

The crowd of 20,000 rose from their seats and booed and booed as Thil lay in his corner. Brouillard argued volubly with the referee, M. Nicco, of Switzerland, and protested with all those round the ringside.

The referee consulted the judges, and it was then announced that Brouillard had been disqualified. A heated discussion, which almost ended in a blow, took place between Brouillard's manager and the official announcer for the possession of the microphone. Brouillard returned sobbing to his corner.

The crowd continued to boo and Brouillard had to make his way through rows of hostile spectators to his dressing-room.

RIFLE SHOOTING

Local Club's Event
At Stonecutters

By courtesy of the Naval authorities, there will be a spoon and practice shoot for members of the Hongkong Rifle Association at Stonecutters to-morrow morning, commencing at 10 o'clock sharp.

A special launch will leave Queen's Pier at 9 a.m., calling en route at Kowloon Public Pier, a Cosmopolitan Dock Pier and Shamshulpo Pier at the usual times.

Those wishing to take part in this shoot should telephone 84121, extension 23, not later than 11 o'clock this morning.

The wedding took place at the Registry this morning of Mr. Patrick William Osborne and Miss Edith Dorothy Broadbridge. Mr. T. S. Whyte-Smith, Registrar, officiated. The bridegroom, who is a clerk of the Hongkong and China Gas Co., is the son of the late Mr. John Joseph Osborne; and the bride is the daughter of the late Mr. Cyrus Alfred Broadbridge.

WHY DON'T YOU TELL THE COACH ABOUT YOUR MOTHER? HE'D REALIZE, THEN, WHY YOU CAN'T SEEM TO GET GOING IN FOOTBALL THIS YEAR!!

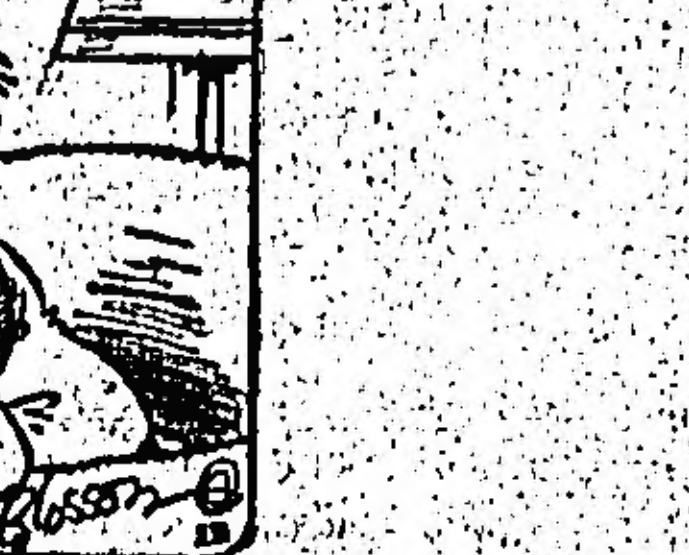

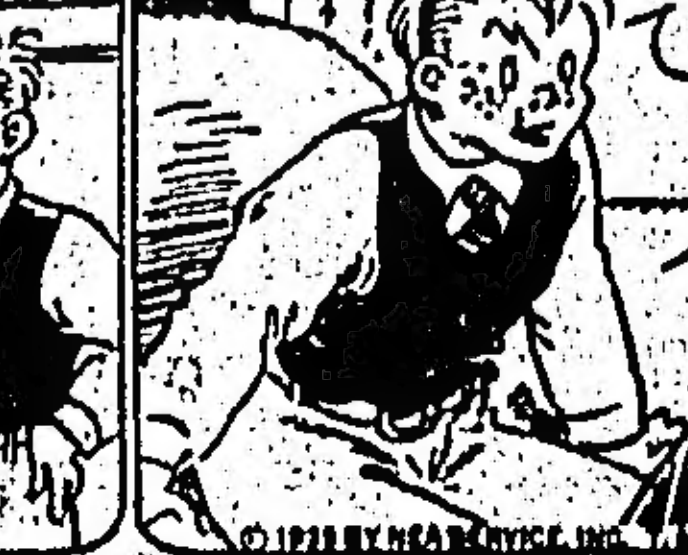

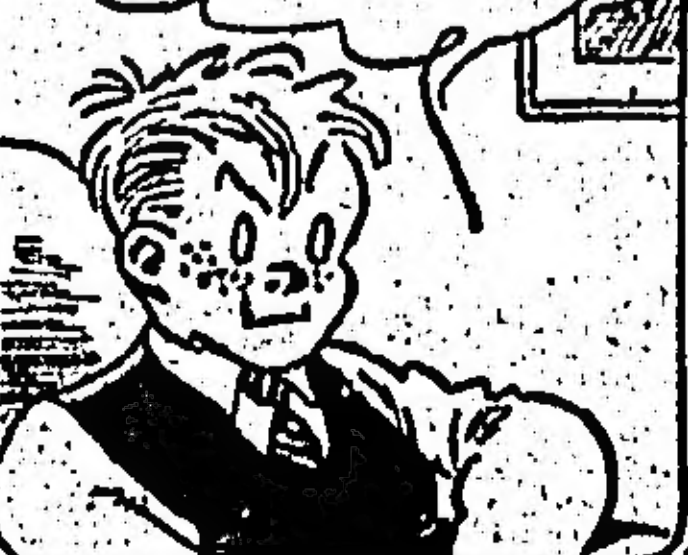

HE CAN'T WORRY ABOUT EVERY GUY'S FAMILY TROUBLES... HE HAS ALL HE CAN DO TO TAKE CARE OF HIS OWN!!

EITHER I'M GOOD ENOUGH TO MAKE THE TEAM, OR I'M NOT!! AND A GUY CAN'T CONCENTRATE ON FOOTBALL WHEN HE HAS OTHER THINGS ON HIS MIND!

BUT IF COACH ROOSE KNEW WHAT I KNOW, HE'D PUT YOU IN EVERY GAME!

AND SUPPOSE I FLOPPED! WHAT THEN?

DO YOU SUPPOSE SHADYSIDE FANS WOULD GET A BANG OUT OF HEARING THE PUBLIC ADDRESS SYSTEM ANNOUNCE THAT 'FRECKLES' MCGOOSY FUMBLER BEHIND HIS OWN GOAL LINE, BUT HE'S KIND TO HIS MOTHER?

HARD WORK IN HIGH PLACES

What is the toughest job in the world? A good many people lay claim to having had it at some time or other. But a pretty safe bet would be that the Canadian "timber cruiser" is in the lead for the dubious honours of any such competition. He has one compensation: the most wonderful scenery in the Americas and no chance to spend his money for five months of the year. Much of his time is spent in "fly camps", working far from his base, sometimes in snow or sleet or rain, sometimes in paroling heat. He is an all-weather man and must be able to carry on his back a load which would tire a good-sized horse in such country. Typical of the scenery and the men of a timber cruise are the illustrations here. What is a timber cruiser? Oh, he tells you how many million feet of spruce and fir and balsam are in so many thousand acres of forest.

Ishbel Proud of Her Ancient "Pub"

No ordinary "pub" is Ye Old Plow Inn, and no ordinary proprietress is Miss Ishbel MacDonald. The serious young lady has served as hostess to her father, the ex-Premier, at No. 10 Downing St., and feels no indignity while serving in the same capacity at the seventeenth century hostelry, once visited by King Charles II. The oldest inhabitant is shown visiting the inn for mug of refreshment with which to drink to the health of the owner, at the hamlet of Speen, near Wycombe. The inn did a rushing business in the past few weeks, and Miss Ishbel was obliged to don an apron to help wait on many of her distinguished guests.

FRANKLIN, at 1 and 8, Wyndham Street in the City of Victoria,
Hongkong.COMPANY LAW
AMENDMENT*EFFECT ON CHINA COMPANIES

The Gazette contains the draft of an Ordinance to amend further the Companies Ordinance, 1932.

It is explained that Section 251 (1) of the principal Companies Ordinance, No. 39 of 1932, contained a paragraph which provided that in a winding up all local rates due from the company at the relevant date, and having become due and payable within twelve months next before that date should be given a certain priority. That paragraph and two others giving priority to certain wages, were repealed and replaced by three new paragraphs which were enacted by section 6 of Ordinance No. 29 of 1933.

The reason for that amendment was to make the priorities of debts in the case of companies in liquidation coincide with those provided by section 38 (1) of the Bankruptcy Ordinance, No. 10 of 1931, for the purpose of simplifying the law in relation to liquidation, amendment to this effect having been suggested by the Secretary of State in the final paragraph of his despatch to the Governor of the 1st June, 1933. Consequently for the paragraph relating to local rates there was substituted a paragraph giving priority to all debts due from the company to the Crown at the relevant date, and having become due and payable within twelve months next before that date.

In this Colony rates are levied by the Government and are payable to the Crown and paid into the general revenues of the Colony. Provision for parochial and other local rates was therefore considered unnecessary.

EFFECT ON SHANGHAI

It has been pointed out recently by His Majesty's Consul representatives at Shanghai that the 1933 amendment has had the effect of depriving the Municipal Council of the International Settlement of its claim to legal priority in respect of rates due by China Companies in liquidation although that Council receives preferential treatment where winding up takes place under the jurisdiction of the Belgian, French and Netherlands Authorities.

The object of this new amending Bill is to add a further paragraph which will restore the former priority of local rates in the case of China Companies and Hongkong China Companies, which are defined in section 348 of the principal Ordinance.

This special provision is limited to China Companies and Hongkong China Companies. Such companies, though registered in Hongkong, carry on their business within the limits of the China Order-in-Council and, for reasons of jurisdiction and otherwise, receive special treatment under the Companies Ordinance.

It is not considered necessary to extend the special priority to companies generally or to ordinary bankruptcies, as it does not appear to be in accordance with the general policy of English law, on which the law of the Colony is founded, of giving special facilities for the enforcement of rates imposed by foreign municipalities for their domestic purposes.

The introduction of this Bill has been approved by the Secretary of State in his despatch No. 5 of the 8th January, 1935.

KING'S FUNERAL
FILM*SHOWING TO-DAY
AT QUEEN'S

Paramount's new record of the funeral of the late King George V, rushed here by air mail and steamer, is showing at the Queen's Theatre to-day, and continuing until Tuesday.

A preview of the film reveals it to be a most impressive record of the final scenes in connection with the death of the King, and the Paramount Company and the Queen's Theatre management are to be congratulated at having made it possible for the film to be seen here eighteen days after the end event.

The film shows the departure of the cortege from Westminster Hall, its passage through the streets of London to Paddington Station, the entraining of the remains to Windsor, and the final scenes up to the conveying of the coffin into St. George's Chapel. The bereaved Queen, the new King and his brothers, together with many ruling monarchs are seen, whilst the huge crowds in London are seen reverently taking up positions at points of vantage.

Already there has been heavy advance booking, and the Queen's Theatre management appreciates this fact, considerably relieving the possibility of disappointment through having to turn patrons away.

ANZACS HOSTS AT DANCE*ENTERTAINMENT AT CLUB ROOMS

The first dance held by the Australian and New Zealand Association in their own club rooms in the Gloucester Hotel, last night, was a marked success. Some 40 members and friends gathered in the rooms and a bright evening marked by good humour and friendliness was enjoyed by everyone present.

The dance was to commemorate the Anniversary Days of both New Zealand and Australia and would normally have been held last month. The King's death caused the postponement.

The rooms having proved so successful for this type of function it is expected that Australian and New Zealand Association dances will soon become a regular feature of the Association's activities.

SONG AND PIANO
— RECITAL*ARTISTES DELIGHT
LARGE AUDIENCE

A large number of music-lovers, including His Excellency the Governor, Sir Andrew Caldecott, who was accompanied by Capt. V. J. R. Cragg, A.D.C., were entertained to a delightful song and piano recital at the Lyceum Theatre last night by Madame Bonenfant and Frau Muller, two very capable artistes who are well known in French and German musical circles.

The concert, which was in aid of the piano fund of the Lyceum, was a great success and was thoroughly enjoyed by the audience.

The various items on the programme, which included outstanding representative composers of three main periods of music, from Bach and Handel to Debussy and Enesco, were exceptionally well carried out, so well in fact that it was difficult to select which was the best. But those who were present last night would agree that it was one of the best treats they have had the privilege to be entertained.

Madame Bonenfant, who has given several concerts in Paris with Enesco, Thibaud and Casals, maintained, if not enhanced, her reputation as an accomplished pianist by her brilliant interpretations of works by such famous masters as Bach, Chopin, Beethoven, Rachmaninoff, Mendelssohn, Schumann, Mozart, Debussy, Scarlatti, Moussorgsky and G. Enesco. Her timing, expert fingering and interpretation of themes enthralled the audience from beginning to end, and the loud applause that greeted every one of her performances, was ample testimony to her ability.

Mrs. Muller, who has sung under the direction of Weingartner, aroused considerable enthusiasm from the audience by her brilliant rendering of a number of classical, romantic and modern songs by famous writers. She is a singer of marked talent, revealing a wide range of tone, extensiveness of range and a clearness of enunciation which is rarely met with in this Colony.

At the conclusion of the concert, the audience showed their appreciation by showering the two artistes with bouquets.

THE FLOWER SHOW*LADY SOUTHERN'S APPEAL

Lady Southern issues the following reminder to the many residents of the Colony who love beautiful flowers:

The Flower Show is on Thursday 5th and Friday 6th, March. This declaration is the successor of several preceding ones all directed to the same object, namely, to draw attention to the complaint heard year after year—"Oh yes, I missed the show, but then I didn't know the date."

This year there are two dates so it is hoped that Hongkong flower lovers will take out those neat little red, green or blue diaries presented to them by kind friends at Christmas and "puttee book" at once.

For the Flower Show in Hongkong is good. To many of us it is a red letter day in the year, when we can feast our eyes on concentrated colour and beauty of blue diaries presented to them by kind friends at Christmas and "puttee book" at once.

For the Flower Show in Hongkong is good. To many of us it is a red letter day in the year, when we can feast our eyes on concentrated colour and beauty of blue diaries presented to them by kind friends at Christmas and "puttee book" at once.

Here gardening is achieved under peculiar difficulties of soil and climate but I have never heard dissatisfaction expressed with the results as embodied by the Show, even by the most ardent film fan who sacrifices an afternoon of the movies.

In addition to fixing the date of the Show in their memories, large flower-lovers to join the Horticultural Society. "And what do I get for it?" is the question. You pay $5 annually. For that you get free admission to the Show, a warm welcome from the fraternity of garden growers and flower fans in Hongkong and expert advice on your garden or window box. It is obvious that the Show cannot be held without money; $2,000 is roughly the amount required for the match and other expenses. At the moment the Society has only 203 members, the deficit is obvious to the untrained eye.

So the hope of those who have the welfare of the Society at heart are centred on new members on the roll and a bumper crowd at the Show.

BELLA SOUTHERN.
President, Hongkong Horticultural Society.

NEW COMMODITY
REGULATIONS*FIRMS TO SUPPLY
DETAILS

It is notified in the Gazette that the following addition has been made to the regulations under the Registration of Imports and Exports Ordinance, 1933 (1). Every person having in his custody, charge or care in any warehouse, godown, storage depot, store or shop in the Colony any of the commodities set forth in the Schedule to these regulations shall, if required to do so by the Superintendent, deliver to the Superintendent at the Statistical Office of the Imports and Exports Department a correct statement of all quantities of such commodities which were in his custody charge or care at the close of business on the last day of each month.

(2) The statement shall be delivered to the Superintendent not later than the seventh day of the month following the month to which it relates, or if such seventh day be a public holiday or a general holiday not later than the next day afterwards.

(3) A notice stating the requirement of the Superintendent may be delivered to any person by leaving the same at such person's place of business or by sending the same to such person by post.

(4) The requirement of the Superintendent shall be deemed to continue and remain in force until he shall give notice to the contrary.

SCHEDULE ADDITIONS

The following schedule has been added to the regulations: Frozen meat, dried and preserved meat, meat extracts, tinned meat, Bacon, ham, tinned soups, tinned fish, dried fish, tinned and bottled vegetables, dried vegetables, potatoes, onions, tinned and bottled fruits, dried fruits, lime juice, jams and marmalade, jelly powders, gelatine, tinned milk, milk powder, tinned, cocoa, sugar, salt, butter, margarine, lard, peanut oil, coconut oil, flour, rice, wheat, pearl barley, cornflour, sago, oatmeal, custard powders, biscuits, gels, dials, glass, masalins, hay, straw, oats, barley, wheat bran, cattle cakes.

NEUTRALITY LAW

Washington, Feb. 14.

The House of Representatives Foreign Affairs Committee has unanimously approved a Bill extending the neutrality law until April 1, 1937. The Bill is almost identical with the measure approved by the Senate Committee.—Reuters Bulletin Service.

His Excellency the Governor has, under instructions from the Secretary of State for the Colonies, appointed Mr. James Ralston, M.A., to be an Inspector of English Schools, vice Mr. A. R. Sutherland, I.S.O., M.A., retired.

It is notified that satisfactory evidence has been furnished to His Excellency the Governor by Brother Stephen-Edward of his appointment as the Director in Hongkong of St. Joseph's College.

A bankruptcy notification states that a first dividend of 55 per cent has been declared in the case of Rahmat Din, chauffeur, of 8 Canal Road West.

His Majesty the King has approved the appointment of the Hon. Mr. T. H. King as an Official member of the Legislative Council.
